CHARLES FYFE, C.P. PASSENGER AGENT, RETIRES

Popular Edmonton Railway Official Held Post Since 1910

Long known as one of the most popular railway officials in Edmonton, Charles S. Fyfe, Canadian Pacific Railway passenger agent since 1910, retired from active service Wednesday.

He will be succeeded by W. L. Mitchell, who for the past year has been acting city passenger agent. Howard Wilson, of the ticket office staff, and prominent sportsman, has been appointed soliciting passenger agent, taking the post vacated by Mr. Mitchell's promotion.

JOINED C.P.R. IN 1899

"Charlie" Fyfe, as he is popularly known in Edmonton, joined the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1899 as telegraph operator and worked up through the various operating services until in September, 1909, he was appointed travelling passenger agent in Calgary.

From that post he went to Edmonton in the same capacity as city passenger agent, where he has been ever since.

Deep regret was voiced by railway officials at the retirement of Mr. Fyfe. The official announcement of his retirement declared "his services with the company have been most valuable and it is with deep regret that the announcement of his retirement is made."

LEADERSHIP LAUDED

Lauding his years of service, Mr. Mitchell, his successor, said that the entire staff joined with him in voicing thanks for his leadership in the passenger office, and expressed the hope that Mr. Fyfe would enjoy many happy years of retirement.

Born in Galt, Ontario, Mr. Mitchell joined the Canadian Pacific railway in 1901. After service overseas in the war, he came to Edmonton in 1919, working with the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, now the N.A.R., and then joined the tC.P.R. in 1921. He has been with the company ever since.

Joining the C.P.R. in 1923 as a stenographer, Mr. Wilson has a series of promotions that have made him successively ticket clerk, cashier and now, soliciting passenger agent, succeeding Mr. Mitchell.

Murder Is Attempted In North — Wielder Disembowels Mate, Then Tries To Commit Suicide.

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

McLENNAN, June 29. — Following an attempt at murder and suicide, Tony Saliwochyk, 35, bush homesteader with a farm about 22 miles north of here on the Peace highway, is lying in the McLennan hospital under police guard, his throat badly slashed, while Kady Murza, 30, the woman in the case, is in Peace River hospital with her lower abdomen slashed open, several stab wounds in the back and other parts of her body, and only a slight chance to live.

Saliwochyk has made a full confession to the police.

According to neighbors of the couple who had been living together as the man's farm since the woman's husband committed suicide by shooting some six or seven years ago, trouble developed when Kady Murza learned that Saliwochyk had a wife and family living in Europe.

At the time she had gone to live with him, they said, he had told her he was single and that they would get married.

TROUBLE STARTS

The trouble started two weeks ago and on Tuesday the woman declared her intention of leaving Saliwochyk and taking her children with her. When she attempted to carry out her threat he attacked her with a large knife, slashing her severely. Bleeding profusely and

EDMONTON'S POPULATION NOW 88,887

Increase Of 1,853 Over the 1937 Civic Census Figures Reveal

Edmonton's 1938 population is 88,887, an increase of 1,853 as compared to last year's population total of 87,034, according to census statistics released Wednesday by Alex Templeton, assistant city assessor. Compilation of the census was completed recently by the assessor's department.

While it was confidently expected earlier this year the 1938 population would reach 90,000, the official figure is slightly less than this total. Mr. Templeton pointed out, however, that his compilation includes only permanent residents, and that if transient or non-permanent population were included in the list, the total would exceed 90,000.

3,000 NON-RESIDENT

It is estimated there are between 2,000 and 3,000 non-resident persons in Edmonton at all times during the year.

North Side population showed the largest increase during the year, the total being 22,551 residents as compared to 21,815 in 1937.

South Side population is 5,791, a slight increase as compared to 5,603 last year.

Male population shows a larger increase than female, the total for the whole city being 45,960 this year, or 1,024 more than the total of 42,936 in 1937.

Female population is 45,027 as

Hepburn Drops Plan To Build Niagara Bridge

TORONTO, June 29 — Premier Mitchell Hepburn said Tuesday the Ontario government decided to withdraw its bill before parliament providing for construction in conjunction with New York state of a new bridge at Niagara Falls rather than "yield to the coercion" of the senate railway committee.

The premier charged "Tory senators" attempted to force an agreement which would have compelled payment of a sum of money to the International Railway Company, the owners of the Falls View bridge which collapsed last January 27 in an ice jam.

Cahan Is Known Special Pleader For Privileged

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, June 29—The attack made on the Honorable W. D. Herridge, former minister for Canada to the United States and a brother-in-law of the Right Honourable R. B. Bennett, K.C., in the House of Commons by Hon. C. H. Cahan, K.C., (Con. St. Lawrence-St. George) has had the effect of rallying the progressive elements in the Conservative party to fight the notorious reactionary element who brought ruin to the Conservative party in Canada.

The Hon. C. H. Cahan, K.C., has long been known as the special pleader for the notorious, special-privilege group in Montreal. He has been all powerful for many years in the inner councils of the Conservative party, in control of campaign funds.

DUPLESSIS IS SUPPORTING DR. R. J. MANION

Quebec Nationalists May Repeat Lesson Of 1911 Election

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

QUEBEC, June 29—French Canadian delegates to the Conservative convention which meets in Ottawa early in July will go down with instructions from Premier Duplessis to throw their votes solidly behind Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion as the next Conservative leader for Canada. No other name will be acceptable to them, it is stated in well informed circles here and should a deadlock develop out of which Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett will be asked to again take over the leadership of the party, they will "bolt" the convention.

STEVENS OPPOSED

By the "Old Guard" of St. James street the suggested candidature of Hon. H. H. Stevens is looked upon as disastrous. It is said here that the fight over the leadership will be only a secondary consideration, but that the real battle at the convention will be between the party emerges as a "Rightist" or "Leftist" party. Recent utterances of Hon. Mr. Stevens and Hon. W. D. Herridge have not been a surprising response among the rank and file of the party, and as Hon. Dr. Manion has a charming French-Canadian for a wife, the Quebec delegates are veering more and more in his direction, while the Ontario delegates will follow Duplessis and his supporters will also go in that direction.

MAY JOIN FORCES

Hon. Dr. Manion and Hon. H. H. Stevens have long been close personal friends and even the defection of the latter from the Conservative party at the last elections did not affect that friendship. Indeed if Hon. Dr. Manion does emerge the leader, with a mandate from the party for a radical reform policy, it is generally conceded that Hon. H. H. Stevens will be back in the fold with him and that if he is successful at the polls, will be his right hand lieutenant in the cabinet that will be formed.

It is this set-up that may force Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett back in the picture. The very mention of the Bennett boom is already under way, and signs are not lacking that the former prime minister may heed the siren call if it is impressed upon him that it is his duty to again take over the leadership.

The lesson of Henri Bourassa and his Nationalists in 1911 which brought about the defeat of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is not forgotten.

BASEMENTS OF MANY HOMES ARE FLOODED

Sudden Rain Storm Deposits .43 Inches Of Moisture On City

Although the sudden burst of rain that hit Edmonton between noon and 1 p.m. Wednesday overflowed gutters and drove even automobiles to the sidelines, the appearance of the storm was deceptive, and instead of the expected six inches of rain, the total as recorded at the Highlands weather bureau was .43 inches.

Catching hundreds out on the streets for lunch hour, the rain sent pedestrians scurrying to the nearest shelter to shake off the drops.

Rumbling thunder accompanied the storm, which approached the city from the west and followed the dark clouds to the eastern horizon when the sun restored order shortly before 1 p.m.

BASEMENTS FLOODED

As during the heavy storm of last Monday, the city engineers department was deluged with calls reporting flooded basements. Storm sewers were filled to capacity with in a short space of time and the

Herridge Repudiated In House By Cahan As Tory: M'Geer Object of Sneers

OTTAWA, June 29.—Suggestion formation of a new monetary party under the leadership of Hon. W. D. Herridge is underway was made in the House of Commons Tuesday by Hon. C. H. Cahan (Con., St. Lawrence-St. George) as the bill to nationalize the Bank of Canada was given third reading.

The veteran Conservative member suggested G. G. McGeer (Lib., Vancouver-Burrard) might be second in command and that the party might include the Social Credit group.

Mr. Cahan indignantly disputed Mr. McGeer's suggestion Mr. Herridge was enunciating Conservative policy in a speech at Halifax Monday. He suggested the former minister to the United States and brother-in-law of Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, had in mind a new movement and predicted certain defeat for him. Mr. Bennett sat beside Mr. Cahan at the time.

In his Halifax speech Mr. Herridge charged reactionary forces control both the Liberal and Conservative parties and are seeking to form a national government.

The McGeer-Cahan clash developed over the Vancouver member's plea for a monetary system in which currency would be expanded under government control to finance large scale public works and social services. This, in Mr. Cahan's view, amounted to "printing press money" on a wholesale scale.

Mr. McGeer told the house if the Liberal party failed to achieve monetary reform as the Conservative party had failed

SOVIET FLIERS FINISH FLIGHT OF 4,300 MILES

MOSCOW, June 29.—Two Soviet fliers landed at Vladivostok Tuesday after a 4,300-mile non-stop flight from Moscow to demonstrate the long-range possibilities of the Red army's aircraft.

The plane was piloted over sparsely inhabited Siberia to the far eastern outpost in 24 hours by Major Kokkinaki, veteran test pilot, aided by Navigator A. M. Brydandinsky.

Kokkinaki wrote in Pravda, official Red organ, that with the round-trip distance between Moscow and Vladivostok, the ease with which Soviet planes could fly over foreign cities in time of war had been demonstrated, as well as the possibility of maintaining contact between Moscow and the Far East.

Fate Hits Cruel

Destitute From Fire

Blow At Aged

Fate struck a cruel blow at an aged couple in the Ponoka district on May 12 when their home, with all its contents, was burned. So quickly did the flames spread that they were unable to save any of their personal belongings, even glasses for old eyes, and false teeth going up in flames.

Now the aged couple are both ill. They are being cared for by friends, but time hangs heavy on their hands and they cannot pass dull hours away by reading as they have not been able to replace the lost glasses.

A friend has brought their plight to the attention of The Bulletin, hoping that some readers wouldcare to assist.

"It's a genuine case. They don't know we are doing this, but glasses would help them both. They are both in poor health," he wrote. The Bulletin has the address if anyone is interested.

YOUTH DROWNS AFTER WRITING EXAMINATIONS

Jimmie Evans, Berwyn High School Lad, Loses Life

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

BERWYN, June 29—The completion of his high school career, with his final examination written, was followed by death for Jimmie Evans, 19, son of T. E. Evans, secretary of Peace M.D., when he was drowned at a dam in a creek on his father's farm Tuesday afternoon.

Jimmie had finished writing his grade 12 exams, in the forenoon and, accompanied by a school chum, Stewart MacGregor, drove out to the country on an errand in his father's car. In the country both boys stopped for a swim at a dam where they had often played.

They went into the water together, but when Stewart climbed out on the bank, he missed his companion. He searched frantically but could not find Jimmy. Then he shouted for help and Joseph Rowe, a neighbor, rushed over. He located Jimmy's body and brought him out of the water but too late to save his life.

Dr. Matas arrived shortly and attempted artificial respiration, but was unable to revive the boy.

Jimmy Evans was popular in the district and had a fine record in school. He had a promising future career.

Funeral will be held at the Anglican church in Berwyn Thursday at 2 p.m.

ROME, June 29.—Usually well-informed quarters today said it was understood the Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Italy, had urged Mussolini to use his influence with General Franco of the Spanish insurgent forces against air raids on British merchant vessels.

Appointment of Miss Margaret Fraser, R.N., B.Sc., to the office of acting superintendent of nurses at the Royal Alexandra Hospital was made at a meeting of the Edmonton Hospital Board on Tuesday evening.

Survey of Costs for Dairy Industry to be Undertaken by Province

INQUIRY INTO MILK PRICES PROGRESSING

Producers Give Evidence Before Commission Sitting In Calgary

CALGARY, June 29.—Cost survey for the dairy industry of Alberta is to be undertaken by the provincial government, R. H. M. Bailey of Edmonton, managing director of the Alberta Milk Producers' Association, announced at the board of public utility commissioners' milk inquiry here Tuesday.

Before Judge A. A. Carpenter, chairman of the board, milk consumers of Calgary and restaurant owners seek a reduction from the present price of 11 cents a quart for milk, a price that has been in effect since the drought year of 1936.

HAVE UNDERSTANDING

"We are not going to make any attempt to show definite costs of production," said Mr. Bailey for the producers. "And, the main reason is that we have an understanding with the provincial government that a cost survey will be undertaken in the very near future."

At the present inquiry, which opened Tuesday, Mr. Bailey said he would show only the total revenues and average prices the producer received for his product.

ACTUAL POSITION

"We want to show the consumers, if they are interested, the actual position of the producers," he added.

Producer-witnesses at the afternoon session, including Dr. Thomas E. Hayes, owner of the largest dairy herd in Alberta, all made a plea for main. tenance of the present price of $2.35 per hundred pounds of fluid milk paid by the Calgary distributors.

Throughout drought and crop loss years the dairymen of Alberta have suffered losses and have been forced into debt, the witnesses told Judge Carpenter.

"We have a right to a price that will enable us to pay our debts," said Dr. Hayes.

Neighbors attracted by the screams came to the woman's rescue but were warned off by Saliwochyk who threatened to kill anyone interfering with him. In spite of the threats they picked up Mrs. Murza and rushed her to hospital at the same time telephoning the police at McLennan.

Constable Allan of the R.C.M.P. and Dr. Piche immediately left for the Saliwochyk farm and on arrival there found that the man had barricaded himself inside.

A vicious dog which attacked them had to be shot before the constable could get close to the house. Peering through the window he saw Saliwochyk rushing from room to room and barricading all doors and windows.

THREATENED SHOOT

The crazed man also threatened to shoot anyone attempting to take him but when Constable Allan, disregarding the threats, crawled through the door and the barricade behind it Saliwochyk ran into a bedroom and when the policeman entered was lying across the bed with his throat badly slashed. First aid was given by Dr. Piche and Constable Allan and he was taken to McLennan hospital under guard where he confessed to the attempted murder and suicide.

A number of children are left without care as a result of the tragedy. Mrs. Murza had a family before she went to live with Saliwochyk and the couple have also had children.

EXCELLENT TRAINING

For the past four years Miss Fraser has been instructor of theory in the nursing school of the hospital, and with her excellent training acquired both at the Royal Alexandra hospital and in the East, will be an able successor to Miss Munroe.

A graduate of the nursing school of the Royal Alexandra, herself, of the class of 1920, Miss Fraser took post graduate work at Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York.

Since her graduation from Columbia, Miss Fraser has held several responsible positions in a number of hospitals in other Canadian cities and in one United States city. Instructor of theory of nursing at Vancouver General Hospital for a time, she did similar work in the Hartford, Connecticut hospital. She was also a year in the Winnipeg General Hospital, before accepting the teaching position at the Royal Alexandra Hospital which she has held for four years.

Miss Fraser, the daughter of J. W. Fraser, 9734 111 Street, was born in Blythe, Ontario, but has lived in Edmonton most of the time since. Receiving her early education in public and high schools in Edmonton, she also attended Havergal College, Toronto.

"It is stamped with a brilliance which can be born only of conviction—and never in the history of our nation has there been a greater need for an urgent and eloquent appeal. The people of Canada to arouse themselves and demand action before it is too late.

"Mr. Herridge tears aside the veil of make-believe that is shows the insanity and the danger of permitting poverty to stalk a land so abundantly rich that it could support a population many times greater than its present eleven millions.

"He tells the people of the secret intrigue and trickery by which political parties and governments are made the mere tools of an international money power. He warns us that revolution and dictatorship will intervene unless the present crisis of economic impotence in a land of abundant wealth is met by definite and fearless action to reform a vicious and outworn financial system.

FREEDOM IN DANGER

"Freedom is in danger, Mr. Herridge warns us, and the rapid growth of fascism and reaction are in control of the country. If anyone had any doubts about this they should have been removed by the treatment which this province has had from Ottawa at the instigation of the agents of Money Power.

"This is a matter above mere party politics. As Mr. Herridge pointed out, the Canadian people years to be under the complete control of international finance. He charges the Conservative party with having served the same master. He declares that the money barons will use either or both to suit their purpose and he says their ends will ever attempt to bring about a merger in the form of a National party. This is not fantastic. It was pulled off in England and there are signs that something of the sort is being prepared for Canada.

DEBT OF GRATITUDE

"Every Canadian owes a debt of gratitude to Mr. Herridge—irrespective of any party political consideration. Though I do not think Mr. Herridge goes quite far enough and though I would have liked him to be more definite in urging the people of Canada to unite in demanding action and reform, I cannot help but admire him and love as he takes the stand he has and presses for the deliverance of the people.

"I believe that Mr. Herridge's historic speech marks the beginning of a new era in Canadian politics and will inspire the people to shake off the yoke of a savage economic bondage."

Strengthening of Empire Is Stated To Justify Move

Encouragement of Settlement in Dominions From United Kingdom Without Delay Is Urged In Report

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, June 29.—In urgent phrase the overseas settlement board today recommended action be taken without loss of time to encourage migration from the United Kingdom to the dominions.

It dismisses any idea migration may be regarded as a solution for unemployment in the United Kingdom. From a careful survey of population trends, the conclusion is drawn it is no longer axiomatic that extensive migration is in the interests of the United Kingdom if those interests could be considered in isolation from those of the Dominions.

BOARD TO ADVISE

The board was appointed in February, 1936, under chairmanship of the Marquess of Hartington, now the Duke of Devonshire, to advise the secretary of state for the Dominions.

"Even now it is only from the point of view of the Empire as a whole that encouragement of migration from the United Kingdom can be justified," the report continues.

Its report pictures the Empire with a white population of 70,000,000, and about 40,000,000 are collected in the United Kingdom. While the total population of the world has expanded during the 20th century at a greater rate than during the 19th, the population of the United Kingdom was growing older in composition and unless the trend was reversed there would be almost immediately a decline in population as the younger working ages and, therefore, of those available for migration.

POPULATION AGING

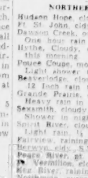

The dominions generally also show a rapidly falling birth-rate although there has recently been a slight recovery and they have amongst them the lowest death rates in the world, so their population, too, is steadily aging. The seriousness of the situation is obvious from the point of view of economic life of the community and also from the point of view of defence.

The report makes the novel suggestion that if the United Kingdom cannot supply settlers in sufficient numbers to provide all the additional population for which the circumstances of the dominions call, the dominions should carefully regulated flow of foreign immigrants of assimilable types, preferably from those countries whose inhabitants sprung originally from the same stock as ourselves and who share our outlook in many directions, has much to commend itself."

BE ENRICHMENT

"The incorporation of assimilable settlers, whether of northern or other European extraction, would itself be not only the source of permanent enrichment to the life of the dominions but would at the same time increase their capacity for absorbing immigrants from this country," the report goes on.

DAMAGE SUIT IS DISMISSED

Supreme court action by John Pennant seeking $2,561 special and general damages from Waterous Ltd. and the Industrial Acceptance Corporation Ltd., was dismissed by Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd in supreme court Wednesday morning.

It was alleged by the plaintiff that the Waterous Company failed to complete a contract on the delivery of a truck purchased, and which was to be fitted with a special body for hauling coal. He also alleged that the Industrial Acceptance Corporation had made an illegal seizure of the truck.

The court found there was no evidence that the Waterous Company had failed to fulfill its contract, but rather that the actions of the plaintiff had made it impossible for the company so to do. Mr. Justice Shepherd also found there was no evidence to support the claim of wrongful seizure.

Neil D. Maclean, K.C., and E. W. S. Kane acted for the Waterous Company, and C. G. O'Connor for the Industrial Acceptance Corporation.

Penitentiary Reform Threatens Hold Up Prorogation of Parliament

BENNETT ASKS HOLD UP BILL CREATE BOARD

Dismissal Of General Ormond Without Hearing Is Protested

OTTAWA, June 29.—Penitentiary reform threatened last night to hold up prorogation of parliament as Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, announced his intention of doing his best to prevent passage this session of a bill to create a penitentiary board and Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, said the government would be open to grave criticism if it did not proceed with the measure.

On a resolution preliminary to the introduction of a bill to create a board to administer penitentiaries, Mr. Lapointe said he did not agree with all the findings of the royal commission on penitentiaries upon one of which the bill was based. He did agree an administrative board was desirable.

PROCEED WITH BOARD

He wished to set up the board now and proceed later with the adoption of other recommendations of the commission headed by Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault.

Mr. Bennett's position was the house should have more time to study the report before it proceeded to change the penitentiary system of Canada when some of the findings of the report were unsupported by evidence.

Immediately the resolution was introduced in the House of Commons Mr. Bennett was opposed to attempting to deal with such an important matter "in the dying hours of the session." He criticized the methods by which the royal commission on penitentiaries operated in reaching its report and declared the recommended dismissal of General D. M. Ormond, Dominion superintendent of penitentiaries, was not fair play.

DRAWS PICTURE

Mr. Bennett drew a picture of "long lines of convicts" marching before the commission to give evidence against Ormond. "And where was Ormond? He was down here in his office doing his job." He believed Canada's penitentiaries had been as well administered as any in the world.

Miss Agnes MacPhail (U.F.O.-Lab., Grey-Bruce), long active in prison reform, said she believed Mr. Bennett was not familiar with penal administration when he said Canada's was as good as any country's.

Check Planned For Revolvers

Cahan Repudiates Herridge As Tory: Sneers At McGeer

dit members an opportunity to press the government for a definite statement on monetary policy and on the meaning of the words "issue currency and credit in terms of public need" as related to the bank's functions, used in the Liberal platform of 1935.

NOT PRIVATE NEED

Replying to Rene Pelletier (S. C., Peace River), Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister, said: "Public need' is used as distinguished from private gain but public need does not mean private need as my friend and those who sit around him have frequently interpreted it."

Mr. McGeer brought Mr. Cahan into the debate when he quoted Mr. Herridge's speech and remarked: "I suppose that is going to be the policy of the Conservative party at the coming convention."

"I pray God that it may not be," interjected Mr. Cahan.

It was the promise to nationalize the Bank of Canada that won the Saskatchewan election, said Mr. McGeer. He hoped at the next session this action would be followed by steps to make the national monetary system a public utility service. In particular he suggested the Bank of Canada handle all government business through a cheque and account system and that a branch of the bank be established in each province to serve provincial governments and municipalities in the same way.

READ HEADLINES

Mr. McGeer had apparently read merely the headlines on the Herridge speech, said Mr. Cahan. Mr. Herridge was not propounding Conservative policy.

"It is clearly apparent from that speech that he (Herridge) has in view the establishment of a new national party organization," said Mr. Cahan. "And it is quite clear from Mr. McGeer's address that Mr. Herridge has already made one disciple for his new organization."

"And, astute as Mr. Herridge is, having secured the unbounded confidence of the member for Vancouver-Burrard, it is only necessary for him now to secure the confidence of the Social Credit party with which he seems to be more clearly allied than with any other party in Canada at the present time, and the Social Credit Party with Mr. Herridge as leader and my friend (Mr. McGeer) as first lieutenant have already begun the fight which they intend to carry on at the next federal elections."

SOONER THE BETTER

The sooner such a fight were started the better, he added. It it was coming he hoped it would be within his lifetime (he is 77) so that he could get into it. There should be a complete showdown. He was in accord with the bill but was sorry it was introduced to satisfy a certain political demand as it would invite further demands from those who believed in printing press money.

"I sincerely hope the courage of the government will be restored," he added, "and that they will be strong enough to resist that agitation because I am thoroughly convinced that even if Mr. Herridge and Mr. McGeer and the Social Credit party and others all unite and the issue is fairly raised the people are sufficiently sane and have sufficient knowledge of the facts to resist that demand and to defeat it by an overwhelming majority."

"Let the honorable gentleman not be not too sure the fight of which he spoke will not come," retorted Mr. McGeer. "But let him not discount the intelligence of the Canadian people because they have been hamboozled too long by the kind of arguments he has presented today which tell only a small portion of the truth."

UNSOUND POLICY

Mr. Cahan said he had lived through similar agitations in two other countries and had seen the "misery, the wretchedness, the poverty and the suicides as well as death in other forms which have been brought about through unsound monetary policy."

"I am not scared by the eloquent suggestions of the honorable member (Mr. McGeer)," he added, "because I have faith in Canada, faith in the sanity of the people, and am persuaded that the progress we have made in the past under sound monetary policies is but a promise of the great prosperity which awaits this country in the future."

The bill would increase and strengthen the demands of those who would substitute "the printing press and tokens," for sound commercial exchange, he declared Mr. McGeer and the Social Credit group and this brought John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, to his feet with a denial that his party advocated printing press money.

USE PRINTING PRESS

The next claim of the monetary reformers, Mr. Cahan continued, would be the use of the printing press to supply Bank of Canada bills to pay the public debt of Canada and finance public services.

When Social Credit members endeavored to further outline their theories as applied to Canadian monetary policies generally, Deputy Speaker Sanderson ruled discussion out of order unless it was restricted closely to the clause in the bill which had to do with appointment of directors. Successive Social Credit efforts to draw from the minister an expression of monetary policy were without result.

WHAT CHANGES

"Just what changes in policy are contemplated (if any)?" Mr. McGeer asked, early in the debate.

"In what way will establishment of complete ownership change the policies of the government with respect to credit and currency so that domestic needs may be served?"

Hon. J. L. Ilsley, minister of revenue and acting minister of finance, replied that the purposes of the Bank of Canada were outlined in the preamble of the statute which created it in 1934. It was not usual, he said, for the government to give advance notice of any possible changes of policy.

"We have here all the machinery for creating an abundance of credit which should be available to the government to meet the public need," Mr. McGeer said.

ALREADY RESORTED

The government had already resorted to unorthodox finance in setting up the machinery for creating credit, but was following the orthodox methods of using that machinery.

Mr. McGeer urged steps be taken to carry out an investigation to ascertain whether it was advisable to establish the Bank of Canada as an actual bank for the Canadian government, and for provincial and municipal governments, with check and deposit services.

Hon. C. H. Cahan (Con., St. Lawrence-St. George) asked if that would not mean those with political influence would have access to means that would not be accessible to those without political influence.

ENTIRELY APART

Mr. McGeer said it would not, since the bank would not make private loans but would deal exclusively with administrations. Commercial banking would remain something entirely apart.

That he described as a "double-shuffle." Mr. McGeer said the government issued $35,000,000 in 1933 to meet a certain emergency. He described this as a "racket" to benefit the chartered banks which were taken in difficulty.

Mr. McGeer said he would not argue further on monetary matters except to say that the acquisition of publicly-owned shares of the Bank of Canada would not change the present banking system nor enable the system to finance Canadian progress.

INMATES OF ALCATRAZ TO KIDNAP ICKES

Weird Plot Recounted By Former Prisoner Of Penal Rock

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29—Roy Gardner, who spent part of 17 years' imprisonment for mail robbery in Alcatraz penitentiary returned here Tuesday with stories of a weird plot whereby two of the island's convicts once planned escape through the kidnapping of Interior Secretary Harold Ickes.

The ex-convict declared the plot fell through because Al Capone, former Chicago gangster now in Alcatraz, refused to put up $10,000 to finance it.

ANOTHER START

Gardner, recently released from Leavenworth penitentiary at expiration of his sentence, came here for another start in life at 54 as an employee of the former Centralia, Wash., policeman who once captured him.

The former convict did not reveal how he learned of the alleged kidnap plot other than to say it was "common gossip" among Alcatraz inmates. He declared it was hatched early in 1934.

HOLD AS HOSTAGE

Gardner asserted that under the plot, outside friends of the two long-term convicts were to seize Ickes, then wintering near Albuquerque, N.M., and hold him until President Roosevelt agreed to order release of the prisoners.

Capone told the plotters they were "crazy" and refused to have any part in the plan, Gardner said. Gardner, whose crime career in 1920 and 1921 netted more than $250,000 in stolen mail, will go to work at $50 a week for Louis Sonney, whose reward money for capturing the robber started him in a film distributing business.

HUGE APPETITE FOR WESTERN PRODUCE

THIS man is a composite of many thousands of Eastern industrial workers. He's a husky fellow and he burns up plenty of energy when he's busy.

It takes lots of Western food to keep him going. But when he's idle he goes off his feed so badly that even Western produce cannot tempt him.

Which is just another way of saying that an active industrial East—typified by the Automotive Industry and the industries that supply its parts and raw materials — is vital to the well-being and prosperity of the agricultural West.

More than 6,000,000 lbs. of poultry; over 50,000,000 eggs; over 20,000,000 lbs. of butter and meats, live and dressed, to the value of over $15,000,000, were bought from the West last year by Eastern industrial payrolls. Your purchase of a Canadian-built car helps keep these payrolls active — and brings your good money back West again.

Set the Boundary Lines

Complaint is heard that the legislature empowered municipalities to collect poll taxes and thereby excused itself from making grants to them for carrying on social services.

This is a fresh outcropping of an old complaint, rather than a new one. Some one of our governing bodies is always protesting that one of the others is "passing the buck". Quite often all three of them are accusing the others of sidestepping some financial obligation or other.

The municipalities blame the provinces and the Dominion for imposing on them. The provinces blame the municipalities and the Dominion for imposing on them. The Dominion blames the provinces and municipalities for unloading on it. And on occasion all of them are justified in raising the protests.

Whatever else the Rowell commission accomplishes, it is to be hoped it can recommend an acceptable plan for dividing up responsibilities in a way that will make an end of this perennial three-cornered squabble as to which governing body is responsible for what. The present state of confusion breeds waste, procrastination and strife.

The End in Sight

By the fall of next year the highway from Edmonton to the international boundary will be hard-surfaced all the way. This is the gratifying announcement of Hon. W. A. Fallow.

Gratifying because a hard-surface highway is the only kind that is of any particular use where traffic is heavy or dense; and also because this promises to mark the completion of perhaps the longest drawn-out highway project in Canada.

It must be twenty years since some former Government started to pile gravel on the Calgary Trail, and there are eight gangs working on this stretch of No. 1 highway now. How much money will have gone into it from first to last will make an interesting exhibit when the figures are compiled. The sum must be enormous already.

It wasn't building the highway that has taken so long and cost so much; it was re-building it, and again re-building it. For the reason that it was not built right in the first place; right, that is, for the heavy trucks and busses of the present day. The advent of these monsters was not foreseen, so no particular fault can be found with the early builders. They thought they were building a "permanent" highway.

We are paying now for what they and we did not know at the time. It is to be hoped today's calculations will not be found equally wide of the mark ten or twenty years hence.

The Session

Parliament is to wind up the five-month session this week. Hot weather, weariness, and anxiety of the Conservative members to get through in time to take part in the national party convention, were factors in setting the closing time. Under their combined influence, as much business has been done in the last five days as in the previous five weeks.

There has been little of the spectacular in the proceedings. The session has in the main been rather a dreary affair, barring an occasional passage-at-arms, announcement of the municipal loan scheme and enlargement of the housing scheme.

The Bank of Canada is to be made an entirely Government - owned institution, and the necessary legislation was passed. Whether this is important will depend on what is to follow. If there is to be no substantial change in monetary policy, the private shareholders might as well have been allowed to keep their minority stock. Buying them out frees the Bank of any suspicion of private control, which is the sole significance at the moment.

The budget statement showed the deficit for the past year was only $13,000,000, less than half the amount anticipated and slightly more than one-sixth the deficit for the preceding year. Had there been no drought on the prairies last summer there would have been a small surplus. On ordinary account, leaving out relief and other special expenditures, there was a surplus of $100,000,000. The $13,000,000 deficit is all-inclusive, and represents the addition to the national debt with all bills paid, including capital outlays, National Railways losses, and relief costs.

Unfortunately parliament did not learn that unemployment had diminished in keeping with the improvement in the national finances. On the contrary, it is still widely prevalent and of serious proportions. Balancing the budget has not restored the economic equilibrium, nor been accompanied by this. The statement only shows that approximately enough money is being collected to meet the expenditures made. Hence there is no increase in taxation, and only minor reductions.

Two definite steps were taken to speed recovery. Municipalities are to be loaned 2 per cent money with which to undertake self-liquidating projects. The housing scheme is broadened, with the Government providing 2½ per cent money to cheapen and encourage building.

Both aim at reviving the construction industries. These industries collapsed under the impact of deflation seven years ago, and their collapse did more than any other factor to create nation-wide unemployment. Should these two measures produce the results they seem likely to produce, the event may prove the session to have been far more important than immediately interesting.

One hopeful fact is that the complete nationalization of the Bank of Canada has not been accepted as an end in itself. Voices have been raised in the Commons insistently that the control power thus secured be used to effect an active management of currency and credit for purposes of public welfare. With unemployment still a baffling national problem, and our foreign trade approaching the highest former figures, it is obvious that monetary policy will have to be actively employed to set the nation on the road to general and enduring prosperity. Demands that the Bank power be so used will be still more insistent and more numerous when parliament meets again.

Editorial Notes

The chief of police in Sault Ste. Marie has decided wedding parties should be less riotous. Hereafter, if any go tearing through the streets with motor horns honking their happiness to the distracted public he intends to lock them up. Not a bad idea; if the chief has sand enough to do it.

Mr. Herman, Social Credit member of the Saskatchewan legislature, says he won't sit in the C.C.F. caucus unless his supporters tell him to. And, presumably, not unless the C.C.F-ers invite him. His presence in their midst would be nearly as consistent as a howling protectionist in a free trade convention.

The British Columbia executive of the Trades and Labor Congress will ask the legislature to repeal the legislation which forbids a strike for a specified period after a board of arbitrators have made an award. Compulsion applied to labor disputes has never been popular in Canada, and probably never will be. It smacks too much of state control of individual liberties. Canadians are democrats.

Butterflies

Most people call moths "butterflies" yet there are about nine times as many moth families as butterfly families. Because butterflies fly by day, while moths are night-flyers, the former are common sights to the most casual observer. There are, however, numerous ways to tell them apart. Butterflies fold their wings high over their backs when at rest while moths fold theirs down flat. Butterflies have club-shaped antenne, while those of moths are feathered.—Montreal Star.

Napoleon's Bed

When the King and Queen of England pay their state visit to Paris in the summer, says an exchange, they will live amidst historical settings. They will be housed in the Quai d'Orsay. King George will sleep in the bed occupied by Napoleon and Queen Elizabeth will rest in Marie Antoinette's bed. Following the Queen's wishes her apartment will be done in pale green. The King had no preference, so his apartment will retain the present gold and red. His bathtub will be of gold mosaics, while the Queen's will be of silver mosaics.—Sydney Post-Record.

Medicine and Minds

Recently the annual convention of the American Medical Association closed in San Francisco on the note that the greatest challenge to medicine on this continent was the treatment of the mentally sick.

We cannot endorse that thought with too much heartiness.

There is no branch of medical practice, and we say this with full respect for what doctors are doing, that has been so shamefully neglected as that which has to do with the reclamation of diseased minds.

The average doctor will not treat an insane patient at all.

The average specialist contents himself with making a more or less specious diagnosis of the trouble.

Any actual attempt, up to the time that insulin has been used to shock certain types of mental derangement back into normality, to actually cure insanity, has been practically non-existent.

With nervous and mental disorders multiplying at an alarming rate all over North America, this apathy or disinclination to enter an increasingly important branch of the healing art is deeply important.

It is encouraging to know that the American Medical Association apparently understands its responsibility in this regard and is preparing to take the appropriate steps to do what should be done.—Vancouver Sun.

First Consideration

People who advocate a "hard-boiled" railway policy for this country display small consideration for those who make Canadian railway operations possible.

Do the "hard-headed" protagonists of merger and "rigid economy" ever stop to think of the rights of the citizens of Canada who would be thrown out of employment as a result?

We say RIGHTS—and we MEAN RIGHTS.

It is the "hard-boiled" policy in industry and the big business to close down those units or parts of great undertakings that do not earn the desired percentage.

This newspaper has always been against that policy and always will be.

For it is the essence of injustice on the part of any corporation, public or private, to build up a situation upon which people base fair expectations, and in accordance with which they shape their lives—and then deliberately scrap assets and activities, frequently obliterating whole communities and wiping out homes and the savings of those who must bear the bitter brunt of it all.

The railways of this country are built. They cost vast sums. And except where it can be done without impairment of public service or injustice to railway employees, not a mile of those railways should be abandoned.—Halifax Herald.

Federal Relief $400,000,000

Canada has spent approximately $400,000,000 on relief and relief projects since 1930—these are the federal expenditures in addition to provincial and municipal outlays. The Dominion has also lent money to the four western provinces to help them meet their share of relief costs, and these loans now stand at $130,000,000.

The worst depression year was 1933, but the peak of Dominion relief expenditure was not reached until 1936, when it was $79,500,000. It is now down to $46,000,000, and would be lower still if the cost of the burden of drought relief in the West, offsetting the reduction in unemployment relief which better times have justified. In the fiscal year which ended with March, the cost of drought area assistance was nearly $25,000,000.

In Ontario complaint is often heard of the reduction in the Dominion's grants-in-aid to help the provinces and municipalities meet their relief costs. These federal contributions amounted to $26,275,000 in 1936, rose to nearly $29,000,000 in 1937, and were down to $19,500,000 in the fiscal year 1938. It is obvious, however, that the Dominion, with its relief expenditures of $400,000,000 to date, and its relief loans of $130,000,000 additional, has been carrying a heavy burden.—Toronto Star.

C.N.R. President's Opinion Sound and Logical

From the evidence given by Canadian Pacific officials before the Senate inquiry committee on the railway situation yesterday it would appear that an effort is made to show a spirit of antagonism on the part of Canadian National officials.

To us it would appear that this is rather far-fetched. To begin with Mr. Hungerford, the president and chairman of the Canadian National Railways System, is a public officer with no axe to grind one way or the other. He is a railway expert called in by the Senate inquiry committee to advise them on the evidence produced by the Canadian Pacific in their advocacy of unification of the two railway systems and his long and varied experience in the operation of railways makes him well qualified to advise in this connection. He is, if anything, more qualified by reason of his having played an active part in three previous railway consolidations and he is surprising how many letters come from readers who are troubled with ear noises and are hoping for relief from this annoying symptom.

The immediate irritation which produces the throbbing noise is usually due either to high blood pressure or to an accumulation of catarrhal mucus within the ear.

In the majority of cases coming under my observation there has been no difficulty in securing satisfactory results by using a dietetic treatment, providing the buzzing sounds are due to catarrh and providing the diet is started soon enough. Inasmuch as ringing noises in the ears are known to precede certain forms of deafness it is important that the patient undertake successful treatment early enough, before there is any possibility of the hearing being affected.

Different patients describe the noises in various ways and one patient will say they sound like a faint buzzing, while another will describe them as resembling a roaring sound. One woman wrote that her ear sounded as though it were full of bees.

Whether the derangement is caused by high blood pressure, or by pressure from mucus, the patient is unpleasantly affected by it and often finds that the continual ringing sounds get on his nerves.

I recommend that at the start of the treatment, the fasting method be tried. In many cases this is all that is needed to provide relief and the noises will disappear within a few days. This is especially likely to be true when the ear noises are due to a toxic condition or due to the liver being upset, as is often the case. Regardless of what the cause may be, the fast at least, will do no harm and there is a possibility that it may be of benefit. The fast will diminish the blood pressure if this is too high, or reduce the excess mucus if the case is due to catarrh. If the noises are due to auto-intoxication the fast will bring about the rapid elimination of the toxins and thus afford relief; while if they are due to a sluggish liver, the fast will help this organ to do its work to better advantage.

It is interesting to have the blood pressure tested before the fast in order to find out if high blood pressure exists. If the blood pressure is not over 140, then it is probably true that the ear noises are due to catarrhal inflammation. In a few cases it will be found that the blood pressure is too low as low blood pressure is also capable of causing ear noises. The fast frequently brings about a rapid change, with relief from the annoying throbbing. After the fast, the patient must follow a careful diet.

Questions And Answers

QUESTION—Johnson S. asks: "What is the best way to fry meat?"

ANSWER: Meat may be broiled, boiled or roasted, but I do not especially recommend that it be fried in grease. When you wish to obtain the effect of frying, secure a thick iron or aluminum frying pan, have it quite hot, and without using any grease, place your meat in the pan for an instant, then turn the meat, repeating this several times during the first minute. Turn the fire down so that the meat cooks in its own juices until it is done to your own taste.

QUESTION—Mrs. Bill G. writes: "Can anything be done in the way of exercise or treatment to correct curvature of the spine in a young person?"

ANSWER: A great deal depends upon the extent of the curvature. In a mild case corrective exercise, manipulative treatment as given by a doctor graduating from one of the schools of manipulative therapy, and the adoption of better postural habits, will be productive of good results. Severe curvatures call for specialized treatment and are often difficult to correct entirely. Without knowing more about the condition of the patient for whom you are inquiring, I could not give you a definite answer.

QUESTION—Susy Lee states: "My youngster likes just oranges and milk for breakfast, especially in summer. Is this enough?"

ANSWER: Yes. This combination afford a most wholesome breakfast.

The Facts

But President Hungerford was able to show that the Canadian National, while meeting a basic national need, has at the same time a great earning capacity under normal traffic conditions. Thus:

1—For the 15-year period, 1923-37 inclusive, its operating revenues exceeded its operating expenses by $361,940,000, or an average of $24,000,000 a year.

2—Even in the years of depressed earnings, 1932 to 1937, the System earned $71,000,000 in excess of its operating expenses, an average of $11,000,000 annually.

3—In the five most prosperous years, 1925-29, the property earned $225,000,000 over its operating expenses, an average of $45,000,000 per annum.

The Canadian National has achieved these results while operating as a pioneering railway, as a colonization railway, making possible the opening up of rich new tracts and the development and use of rich resources in this country, and while furnishing transportation to long-settled communities, often, and inescapably, at a loss.

Unification may remain a debatable point; it will be no longer possible to argue for unification on the basis of assertions shown to be foolish—if not worse.—Ottawa Journal.

Old Country Letter

LONDON, Eng. (By Mail)—The visit of the impending vacation of the Governor-General in this country is being made the occasion of much appreciative comment in the Press on his success in the office.

Some newspapers over here, however, do not yet understand that the British Government has now nothing to do with the appointment of the Governor - General of Canada.

J. E. NORCROSS

Thus it is stated in the columns of a leading Journal that "when Mr. Ramsay MacDonald appointed John Buchan, the novelist, to succeed Lord Bessborough as the King's representative in Canada, he caused a sensation."

But the King now appoints his representative in Canada, not on the advice of the British Prime Minister, but on that of the Canadian Prime Minister, and it was Mr. Mackenzie King and not Mr. Ramsay MacDonald who recommended the present Lord Tweedsmuir. Which is not to say, of course, that the original suggestion may not have come from London.

The commentator quoted continues, apropos of Lord Tweedsmuir's impending visit to England: "Lord Tweedsmuir's success in Canada has abundantly justified Mr. MacDonald's prescience.

"He is very much the Governor when State duty is afoot, and he is very much John Buchan, interested in everybody and everything when not on duty."

On This Date
A Day in Canadian History

By FRED WILLIAMS

As a direct consequence of the invasion of the Niagara district by the combined Canadian refugees and their American sympathizers, which culminated in the affray at St. Johns on June 21, 1838, (details of which have been told in this column) the Niagara frontier was by official proclamation ordered closed. Although the command was not issued until June 22, it took some days to reach all the frontier points, but by this date the frontier was as effectively closed as it is today in certain countries in middle Europe. The proclamation reads strangely to us who have such free access to and from the United States. Here is part of this order signed by Sir George Arthur:

"Whereas information has been received by me that certain evil-disposed persons connected with the brigands who have of late molested and disturbed the peace of the American and British frontiers have crossed the Niagara river, and that they lurk and secrete themselves in parts of the district of Niagara with the knowledge and connivance of some of the disaffected resident inhabitants;

"And, whereas, it is necessary for the peace and security of the district of Niagara, that the ingress and egress of idle and evil-minded persons should be restrained and prevented, and that the perpetrators of the above outrage and their abettors should be brought to condign punishment;

"I do therefore strictly order and command all officials, magistrates and others whom it may concern that no person be permitted to land upon or leave the shore on the British side of the Niagara river coming from or going to the United States territory unless he shall give a full and reasonable account of himself or show that he is coming or going in the prosecution of his lawful affairs and business which person shall be furnished with a passport to secure him from further hindrance or molestation."

Although the participants in the Short Hills raid were all practically caught before the end of June, the frontier was kept closed until the ice came in December. There was, of course, no bridge across the Niagara and the only means of crossing was by boat, which made it especially long been suspended.

Fresh Air Camps Appeal

Editor, Bulletin: Can we get 500 citizens who will invest $1 in human happiness? Beginning on July 8 All People's Mission will commence its annual fresh air camps at Moonlight Bay where, on the shores of Lake Wabamun new life, health and courage will be given to more than four hundred boys, girls, young people, mothers and babies, who will be guests of the Mission in a series of Fresh Air Camps held under the finest of conditions possible.

In connection with these camps no lines of creed, color, political affiliations, or any other distinctions are drawn. The only test is that of "Need". It is a reality, rather than in mere talk, an attempt to alleviate suffering on the part of needy people. They are not objects of charity, but rather our guests—your guests—for its only your generosity which makes such work possible.

All People's Mission has no high-pressure salesmen of its services given gladly day in and day out, but its Good-will Industries with a record of over 100 women per week assisted in its workshops since early Fall precludes the possibility of having any financial reserves. We start this year's camps in debt, and we are asking you to share the joy of putting over this year's program.

Our constituency is the whole city. Our staff are specialists in their line and we know just who needs this fresh air help better than those who touch Social Service as a hobby, or an aid to other ulterior purposes. We serve no groups, but will take care of any person you may know, as long as space remains, and who has no other way of getting much needed help in a camp. But it must be a needy case. One fresh air cottages at Alberta Beach are at the disposal of needy families. We provide everything but the food and transportation at these cottages.

May we have your confidence expressed in the finances which make such happiness possible for a large number of your fellow-citizens. We play no favorites. All People's Mission camp stands for what it's name implies. It is the church's answer to human need. There are no other strings attached.

If you cannot give us cash we would be happy to call for any contribution in kind, and all our receipts and expenditures will be reported.

Contributions should be sent to Mr. Grant Burrows, Edmonton Motors, or to Rev. J. T. Stephens.

Yesterday: The Weasel heads Joe and Kelly northward and breaks the news that he will hold them until he is safe out of the U. S. A.

"Ain't it the truth," agreed the Weasel emphatically. "Dat's wot I always say to Cissy."

"Cissy? Who's Cissy?"

From the regions of the confectionery came a kind of audible smirk. "Me gal, dat's who Cissy is. Da moll I travels wit. She's a honey, too."

"I'll bet she is," said Joe. "Where's Cissy now?"

The Weasel chuckled. "Canada, dat's where she is. Waitin' on me. We got a hideout up dere, see? When I gets da itchin' foot I comes acrost the border, pulls a job somewheres and den beats it back." He paused, then added with satisfaction: "Dat's how we works it."

"Quite a system," said Joe. "By the way, when do you propose to permit Kel—er—Miss Archer and I to proceed in peace?"

"Huh?"

"Okay. I'll scale it down. When can dis dame and I beat it off by ourselves?"

"When I'm safe outa da U. S. A.," said the Weasel uncompromisingly.

CHAPTER V

HARDLY had Mr. Ed (Weasel) Wcynowski made his announcement when he came within an ace not only of getting out of the U. S. A., but of shuffling off this mortal coil altogether.

The Ford had been approaching Tarantino bend in the highway and Mr. Sandham, engrossed in his fascinating conversation with the Weasel, was hogging the road a little. But as a roadhogger Mr. Sandham was just a piker compared to Mr. Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino, in of the wrong side of the tracks in his wheel, also to the right.

* * *

There followed five separate events of more or less importance. (1) The Ford delivery truck operated by Mr. Joseph Sandham darted gaily off the road, nuzzled the front fender against a telegraph pole and stopped. (2) The truck piloted doubtfully by Mr. Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino, sometime Genoese, did a kind of ponderous version of the Big Apple off the other side of the road, crashed against a low stone wall and languished there. (3) Three crates of live chickens of the Rhode Island Red variety fell off the back of Mr. Tarantino's truck and broke open. (4) Miss Kelly Archer woke up with a forgivable start. (5) Ed the Weasel got off one of the finest, most fluent oaths within the memory of man.

Then, for a second, there were no sounds on the Albany Post Road save a frenzied clucking from the rear regions of the chicken truck.

Kelly was the first to speak.

"Nice going," she said. "It's a wonder we aren't all dead."

Ed. the Weasel began to fume. He was annoyed at the delay and he cast about for defence upon whom to put the blame. Mr. Joe Sandham appeared as likely a prospect as any.

"Now look what you went an' done," he said aggrievedly.

The injustice of this smote Joe.

"Me?" he ejaculated. "My gosh, but for me you'd be tuning up a harp about now. It was that guy's fault. Whoever's driving that truck."

Over on his side of the road Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino was coming to in the front seat of his truck. Not that Mr. Tarantino had been knocked out. It took more than a little motoring accident to knock out such as Mr. Tarantino. But he had been shocked and dazed. Now, however, what with he had slowly collected themselves.

Antonio had not been in America for very many years. But he had resided long enough to know that the best way to comport one's self after an automobile crash is to howl at the other fellow first. He climbed down out of his truck with the intention of howling in a big way.

He had thought to howl all by himself, as howls the lone wolf in the tall timber. But Fate had seen fit to provide him with assistance. As he began pigking his way across the road, a strong consignment of clucking chickens followed, doubtless perceiving in him a possible source of food. Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino arrived at Chandler & Sandham's Ford delivery truck in an aura of wrath and Rhode Island Reds.

* * *

Mr. Tarantino paused at the side of the truck, peering through the semi-gloom. The poultry stood embattled behind him, clucking in warlike fashion. Mr. Tarantino's bright eyes swept over Kelly and Joe in the front seat, decided that they looked refined and, consequently safe to bawl out. He spoke.

"Hey," said Mr. Tarantino, loudly and menacingly, "wotta you t'ink dees ees, a trucka da race? You busta my truck and I losa da chicks. Wassa matta you, hey?"

"Aw nuts," said Joe, who was growing fed up with things generally.

This well-known rejoinder seemed to stimulate Mr. Tarantino's rage. He did an excited little dance.

"Nutsa, hey?" he shouted. "Well, nutsa to you. Now I tella you someseng. You pay for da chicks or I busta da nose. Eef I . . ."

He stopped short. A terrible countenance had suddenly poked itself over Mr. Sandham's left shoulder and was staring down at him with basilisk eyes. To Mr. Tarantino the visage looked like something which might have appeared in the dead of night after an excess of sphagetti and red wine.

"Sacramento," ejaculated Antonio Giuseppe, and crossed himself hastily.

For half a minute the Weasel drilled Mr. Tarantino with eyes like sullen bullets. Then he gave tongue.

"Listen, you splay-footed Wop," quoth the Weasel. "I'm givin' you warnin', see? Lay off'n dis rough stuff an' lay off'n it snappy. 'Fore I come out dere an' paste you all over New York State."

"My hero," said Kelly approvingly.

Faced with unexpected opposition a good general knows how to change his tactics to meet the new situation. Mr. Tarantino proceeded to qualify as a good general. From one of bluster and ferocity, his mien became almost servile,

JAPAN ARMY BURNS ANKWO FOR REPRISAL

900 Shops Are Looted and Unusable Contents Smashed

ANKWO, Hopeh Province, China, June 24 — (Relayed by Courier at 22 civilians—The walled city of Ankwo, 140 miles south of Peiping, was still smoking today as this correspondent entered it on the heels of a retreating Japanese army which burned it in a campaign of reprisal against Chinese guerrilla warriors.

There were smouldering ruins of more than 80 large buildings. More than 900 shops had been looted, and unusable contents smashed.

A column of 300 Japanese soldiers and 1,500 Chinese mercenaries marched from the Peiping-Hankow railway June 16 and occupied Ankwo after a two-day battle with 300 Communist guerrilla troops.

Chinese mercenary soldiers who were captured by guerrillas now holding the town said the Japanese ordered them to loot all shops. Many merchants who remained in the city during the week's reign of terror were victims of extortion. Altogether 22 civilians were killed for failing to produce money when it was demanded.

Superannuation Report Tabled

OTTAWA, June 29—Third and final report of the special house committee on the civil service superannuation act was tabled in the Commons Tuesday by Malcolm McLean (Lib. Melfort), committee chairman. He moved concurrence but A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni) asked concurrence be considered at the next session of the House and his request was granted.

WAR SUPPLIES MAY BE BUILT IN RAIL SHOPS

Defence Minister Says Survey Of Availability Being Made

OTTAWA, June 29—The National Defence Department has started a survey of Canadian National Railways shops to determine their availability and suitability for turning out munitions, tanks and other war supplies.

Announcement to this effect was made last night by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence, who Tuesday received a deputation from Stratford where 200 workers at the C.N.R. shops have been laid off. Mr. Mackenzie said he would send inspectors to Stratford to look over the shops there.

NO FALSE HOPES

Mr. Mackenzie said he does not wish to hold out false hopes for C.N.R. workers but if needed war supplies can be turned out in these shops they should be.

Defence department inspectors already have submitted reports on some Canadian National Railways shops and the Stratford situation will be looked into immediately.

BRITISH ORDERS

The Canadian Press learns there are not enough Canadian orders in prospect to keep any considerable number of C.N.R. workers busy, even if the shops should be found suitable. But it is learned consideration is being given to the placing of possible arms orders from Great Britain with the shops of the nationally-owned railway system. Mr. Mackenzie was silent on this possibility.

Copyright Act Report Tabled For Consideration

OTTAWA, June 29 — The Commons banking committee in a report tabled Tuesday in the house referred the question of whether there were abuses under the copyright act to the secretary of state department for further consideration. The committee adopted the report earlier Tuesday.

A bill was introduced in the house which would have enabled the secretary of state to require the Underwriters' Survey Bureau, an organization of the Tariff Fire Insurance companies, to make available to non-tariff companies plans of buildings it had built up for fire insurance purposes in practically every Canadian community.

Offending Drivers Barred From All Other Provinces

OTTAWA, June 29—Any motorist who loses his driver's permit as a result of conviction for a traffic offence in one province will be barred from operating a motor car anywhere in Canada under an amendment to the Criminal Code approved in the House of Commons Tuesday.

Fishing Roads Bring Tourists

MOOSE JAW, Sask., June 29 — Alberta has obtained benefits of the fish and tourist businesses in the area around Cold and Primrose lakes because that province had built a good road to the district on the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary, it was stated here Tuesday by A. R. Vine of orth Battleford, Sask.

"$100 Cheques Every Month.. I'd Like to Bring You One Too!"

"As regularly as the months roll around . . it is my pleasant duty to deliver long Canada Life envelopes containing income cheques to a number of homes . . . one of the 'lucky' recipients explained it to me.

"Any man of moderate means can guarantee himself an income at 60 through the Canada Life Plan . . . and at the same time give his wife an income for life if he doesn't live."

It's great to sit back . . . take life easy . . . knowing that when you spend this month's cheque another will come along next month without fail . . . and this plan is available to women too.

Piano Class Teachers Fete Visiting Music Examiners At Dinner In Corona Hotel

TRENDS in piano class work, features of that work in Toronto and amusing little incidents of examinations, were told members of the Piano Class Teachers' Association by Mr. E. Magee and Mr. R. Godden, examiners from the Toronto Conservatory of Music, who are in the city, on Tuesday evening when they chatted informally with the group as their guests at dinner.

Banquet room of the Corona hotel was the setting for the affair, and the tables were graced with pink and white peonies and on the head table the floral decorations were flanked by green tapers.

STANDARD HIGHER

"Standard in piano class work has gone up," Mr. Magee, senior examiner, stated, "because the requirements are as near perfect as they can be made." Discussing piano class work in Toronto, he stated that members are divided into groups where they are encouraged to give their views with the result that controversy and discussion is provoked and new ideas brought to light.

Mr. Godden also spoke briefly as did Mr. Eagleson, superintendent of piano class work in Edmonton, who mentioned the excellent work which the Toronto Conservatory of Music has accomplished during the past years.

Wonderful results can be obtained from group teaching, he said, and although trouble is encountered in the initiatory years, the work is progressing.

INTERNATIONAL DISTINCTION

"Toronto Conservatory of Music represents a point of distinction in the world which is now international," Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, who with Mrs. Kerr was a guest at dinner, stated in speaking to the gathering briefly. "The cause of a great Art is at present going through a difficult stage," Dr. Kerr continued, "but the only view worth having is the long view and favorable times are certain to come again."

Guests at the head table included Mr. E. Magee, Mr. R. Godden, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. R. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman Eagleson, Miss A. McKinney, Mrs. Vernon Barford, Mrs. T. W. Hamilton, Miss Bertice Crawford, and Mrs. A. E. Wright.

Much Interest Attends Evening Wedding Ceremony Solemnized In Calder United Church

FRIENDS thronged Calder United church on Tuesday evening when at one of the most prettily arranged ceremonies of the month Tazwell «Teddy» Lorraine Pinkston, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Pinkston, became the bride of Harry Charles Jones, third son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jones of Vancouver.

Pink and white peonies and mountain lilies, colorful against a background of deep green fern, formed the setting for the lovely service conducted by Rev. A. D. Richard, commencing at eight o'clock.

Tuesday Bride

REGAL FIGURE

Favoring the white wedding gown of tradition, the bride wore a regal model of brocaded satin, featuring a Queen Anne collar, leg o' mutton sleeves tapering to lily points over the hands, and a row of tiny buttons from the neckline to just below the waist at the back. The bodice was tightly fitting, the skirt full, and falling into a graceful train. A delicately embroidered veil of white lace was held in place by a halo of stiff lace.

A rhinestone clip at her neck was the bride's only ornament and in her hands she carried a white leather prayer book, decorated with a floral arrangement of lilies-of-the-valley and white rose buds, and tied with white satin streamers which fell to the floor.

SIMILAR GOWNS

Miss Elsie Milner of Winnipeg and Miss Mabel Neath, as bridesmaids, were attired in similarly fashioned gowns in pink and blue respectively. Square necks, puffed sleeves, and full skirts featured the frocks which were made of lace over taffeta, and sashed with intertwined ribbons of pink and blue. The bridesmaids wore the cameo necklines presented to them by the bride and in their hands carried colonial bouquets.

Little Aldereen Jones, niece of the bridegroom, was a charming flower girl in a frock of yellow point d'esprit fashioned with tier upon tier of frills from the waistline to the floor. Her sash was of blue and yellow ribbon and her flowers an old-fashioned nosegay.

All the bride's attendants wore becoming little old-fashioned hats of lace and taffeta, tied under their chins with velvet ribbons.

SUPPORTING THE BRIDEGROOM

Mr. Merle Jones, the bridegroom's brother, and Mr. Jack Hembroff were the groomsmen and Mr. Thomas Pinkston and Mr. Jack Wood escorted the guests to the pews which were marked with satin bows and knots of sweet peas.

Wedding marches were played by Mrs. J. Reynolds and during the signing of the register Miss Marion Gallagher sang "O Promise Me."

The pianist and the soloist were made the recipients of pretty bracelets, while leather wallets were presented to the groomsmen and the ushers.

Between 90 and 100 guests were present at the reception arranged later in the salons on the mezzanine floor of the Macdonald hotel.

Receiving with the bridal party, Mrs. Pinkston was smart in a model of navy sheer-over-taffeta, worn with a veiled hat in matching straw. Her corsage was of Talisman roses.

IN PINK AND WHITE

Centered by a three-tiered wedding cake topped with rosebuds and lilies of the valley, the bride's table was lighted by tall ivory tapers and graced with vases of pink and white peonies.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Milner of Winnipeg, Mrs. Evans of Regina, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dempster of Vancouver were out-of-town guests for the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones have left on a honeymoon trip to Los Angeles and on their return late in July will take up residence in Edmonton.

For travelling, the bride chose a tailleur in honey beige trimmed in fox, and worn with a soft, hat gloves and shoes in the new rose-berry shade.

Rhoda Mary Dunbar And Russell (Rusty) Wynn Are Wed In B. C.

Peasant styled frock of turquoise blue silk poplin, worn with modish bonnet, elbow length gloves and slippers in wine, was the pretty costume Rhoda Mary Dunbar, eldest daughter of Mrs. S. L. Dunbar of Edmonton, chose for her wedding one evening recently to Mr. Russell Howard ("Rusty") Wynn, youngest son of Mrs. P. H. Wynn, also of this city. Her flowers, worn in a corsage at her shoulder, were orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

The ceremony, performed in St. Andrew's United Church, in Rossland, British Columbia, was conducted by Rev. T. W. Reed one evening last week-end.

Sporting and social circles in Edmonton share interest in the ceremony for the bridegroom took an active part in many city sports, rugby, baseball and hockey, while the bride has a wide circle of friends in social sets in the city.

Mrs. Rene Morin attended the bride and chose for the occasion a smart frock in navy sheer, with accessories in navy and white and a corsage of pink roses and gladioli.

Mr. Irving Irembath supported the bridegroom as best man.

Miss Mary Phillips of the nursing staff at the Toronto General hospital was in Saskatoon at the week-end and has plans to visit in Kindersley and Edmonton, before continuing on a trip to the Pacific coast.

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

A person is not dead when he stops breathing or when his heart stops beating, doctors have found, for people whose hearts have been stopped for as much as ten minutes have been revived and lived to tell their friends about it. Dr. Albert S. Hyman has invented a gold electrical needle which has started many hearts again after the patients had been "dead" a number of minutes. This electrical needle is thrust directly into the heart muscle, and in many cases starts the heart beating again. Nobody can say exactly when a person is dead, or give the exact time of death. It is certain that life is still in the body for some little time after people are declared "dead."

DOROTHY DIX Says:

DEAR MISS DIX: Seven years ago when my husband and I got married we were earning the same salary. We agreed that I would continue to work and that we would save to buy a home and accumulate a bank account. This we have done at the price of wearing cheap clothes, taking sandwiches from home for our noon lunch and economizing in every way possible to accomplish our ambitions. I feel that my sacrifices have been the heaviest as I have stood aside more than once to push him ahead, for I felt that we must plan for his future more than mine. I have been the one to do without a new coat for five years and to give up my clubs to enable him to belong to a good men's club. Also I have done extra sewing in addition to my office work to save the price of a maid. My husband has taken possession of all of my money as I earned it, and although he used it for some plan for our mutual benefit, I have not had a penny that I could call my own. So I recently told him I would turn over to him only $100 of my salary of $150, and keep the $50 for my own. At this he went up in the air, and from then on our married life has taken a turn for the worse. What I am actually doing with the $50 is to help my mother. She is a widow with a small income, and the little I give her is a margin of luxury that makes her as happy as a child. I give her only $15 and save the balance for myself. I am sick of working hard and never seeing the money I earn, and being questioned about every cent I spend. What do you suggest?

A WORKING WIFE.

Answer:

It is a queer thing that many husbands who love their wives find it impossible to be just to them in the matter of money. We see this illustrated on every side. Rich husbands who give their wives hundred-dollar purses that they haven't even a love quarter in them. Husbands who make their wives come to them like beggars for every penny, although they do the work of half a dozen servants for them. Husbands like yours, who take their wives' money away from them just as a matter of course and as if their wives were slaves who had to toil for them.

The husbands who treat their wives this way about money do it on the assumption that there is some peculiarity about women that prevents them from desiring economic independence and that makes them enjoy being menials. They know that they themselves could not endure going to even the most generous father and asking for carfare or the price of a pair of shoes. Nor would they work for anybody for their board and clothes. Nor would they submit to anybody robbing them of the money for which they had labored. But they think women like it. Or they say they think so. Yet every working woman in the world can tell you that the greatest thrill she ever had was when she got her first pay envelope and had her first dollar of her very own.

This view of men about women's attitude toward money makes the problem of the working girl a very acute one. For the husband is not only too apt to keep his wife in a state of peonage by taking all of her earnings away from her, but also to expect her to do all the housework. It is a consolation to us to see the Prime Minister in an arm chair reading the paper while the still more Tired Business Woman rushes around cleaning the house and getting the dinner to make him comfortable.

Inasmuch as the laborer is worthy of his hire, even if he is a she, and inasmuch as women crave financial independence as much as men do, it seems to me that a fair solution of the problem would be for the husband and wife to each take a certain amount of their earnings each month, said money to be the individual perquisite of said husband or wife, to be used as he or she pleased, with no questions asked, and the balance of their joint salaries to go into a common fund out of which would be taken the necessary running expenses of the home.

And if the husband's salary were larger than the wife's, it would be offset by the wife's work in the home and also by the fact that a husband is expected to support his wife. He should feel that he is lucky to have a wife who contributes at all financially to the family income.

"I was South and the contract was five clubs. I was annoyed that it was not six clubs when I saw the dummy.

"The king of diamonds was opened by West and East gave him the deuce of diamonds. A heart was led and thoughtlessly finessed and lost to the king. A diamond was returned. I trumped, drew trumps, led a small spade to the board and, after putting on the ace, had to lose a spade trick. I do not think that I played the spades improperly, as even had I started from the board I would have played one of the honors, to keep top honors in both hands.

"But if, on the second trick, I had played the ace of hearts, drawn trump, trumped the last diamond, and then given up the heart, no distribution of spades could have beaten me.

"Do you think an expert would have seen this every time?

"Yours truly,

"Dr. S. H., New York City."

As my correspondent points out, here was an opportunity for a little known but valuable safety play. If the contract had been six clubs, of course the heart finesse had to be tried, but at five, any safety factor that could be thrown about the hand was highly desirable.

My correspondent's analysis of what this safety play should have been, however, was not entirely accurate. Played precisely as he suggested, he still would have a guess in the spade suit. That is to say, after stripping the North-South hands of diamonds and throwing a defender on lead with the heart queen, a spade return still would leave a "guess." For example, suppose East were to take the heart queen and lead a low spade. Declarer would, of course, follow low, and let us assume the nine spot would force the queen. Now declarer would have to guess whether to lay down the ace, playing East for a possible remainder of J x x, or lead a low spade from the dummy so that if East showed out a finesse could be taken against the jack in West's hand.

The true safety play was to take the heart ace, draw the adverse trumps, ruff dummy's remaining diamond, and then cash the spade ace before throwing a defender on lead with the heart queen. Now if a spade were returned it would prove one of two things, both satisfactory from declarer's point of view: either that the spade suit would break or that the leader of the second spade was the one who originally had four.

Travel Comfort And Convenience In Bag

Raising A Family

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The more things we do every day, and the more things we experience, the more fitting we have to be always truthful.

Children are in just about the same fix. They live more deeply than they used to.

O R Barton

I don't say "more profitably," because I don't believe it. I am speaking of the things that make them happy, strong in character and mentally contented when I say this.

Simplicity of living makes the path clearer. Then there is only one way to go, generally speaking. Today's people and today's children are like a man lost in the woods. He has to cut his way through. He becomes a little ruthless and sometimes tramps lovely things down.

We insist on children being truthful and honest, when they see daily examples of untruth and insincerity all about them.

SET GOOD EXAMPLE

Yet, with it all, there is just one thing to do. To keep on demanding truth. And, naturally, to be quite careful not to set any example of fabrication ourselves, or reduce their respect for the source of authority.

Lies are nearly always a defense. Boys and girls fib their way out of jams. Fear is the granddaddy of most lying, of course. Fear of punishment, fear of losing caste, fear of restraint, fear of divulging self. There are too many fears to recount.

What most mothers want to know is how to avoid the danger of future lies, if the confessor is punished.

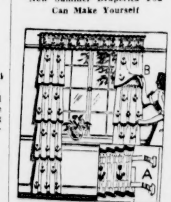

The first thing, I think, is to find out whether a child feels that he has been justified in his conduct. Discover his reasons for acting as he did. Give him a hearing. See it his way.

If he is always in trouble, and habitually inventing to cover up, then a change in charge of his daily scene is wise. Find new interests and perhaps some new friends. Maybe you will find another angle in treating him. Go over everything and try hard to discover the cause.

Truth is important enough to claim our whole attention. Children are hard put to it sometimes, as I have said, but insist on truth every minute of the day.

New Summer Draperies You Can Make Yourself

Dainty—Airy—Lovely

The living-room looking a little dingy these bright summer days? Gay flounced curtains dress it up.

They're surprisingly quickly made—and you'll fall for the clever valance that looks like a smart new cornice.

Imagine these draperies in a cool, tulip-patterned chintz, crimson and green on gray. Or in lemon-yellow with an all-over design in gray and emerald green. Or in Swedish blue piped in red.

To make the valance, simply take a straight length of material and shirr on two flat rods with a frill on both edges (A).

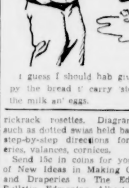

For each flounce of the draperies bind or picot lower edge, gather top, stitch to muslin foundation (B). Let each flounce overlap the one below.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of New Ideas in Making Curtains and Draperies to The Edmonton Bulletin, Edmonton, Alberta, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address and the Name of booklet.

What To Do

By Phyllis Belmont

I have heard so much about cocktail parties. I have about decided to give one so my friends can meet a cousin who will visit me soon. I wish you would please tell me about the invitations, the hour and the kind of refreshments. Thank you. M. C. A. F.

Answer — A cocktail party is usually very informal and does not need be no particular invitations—it's the kind of a party that can be got together at a moment's notice. No invitations are generally given over the telephone. For a planned affair, however, special cards may be purchased or invitations may be written on personal cards. A cocktail party may start any time from midafternoon up to dinnertime. The accompanying food may even take the place of dinner itself. But a cocktail party should always precede the dinner hour in point of time. If you expect some nondrinkers, provide a nonalcoholic punch. Otherwise serve one or more of the good standard cocktails, like dry Martinis or Manhattans — various types of finger foods, canapes, hors d'oeuvres, dainty assorted sandwiches, olives, cheese, popcorn and so on, but never sweets. No silver is required on the table, just plates and small napkins and a constant replenishing of food. Guests generally lose track of the number of visits to the refreshment table.

COOL MINT FLAVORING

LABOR BOARD DECISIONS ARE FACING COURTS

WASHINGTON, June 29 — Decision fraught with material for controversy in the courts are issuing from the quasi-judicial chambers of the National Labor Relations board.

The accumulating orders of the board are building up a body of labor rules designed, board member Edwin S. Smith declares, to make collective bargaining become eventually the rule, instead of exception, in labor relations.

Permanency of the new precedents, rules and decisions will depend in some instances upon court decision.

There already is talk of a court test of a recent order granting the committee for industrial organization Longshoremen's Union exclusive bargaining power for all longshoremen In 31 west coast ports. The decision put collective bargaining on a sweeping geographical basis for the first time.

7 PER CENT. INCREASE IN WHEAT SOWN

Crop Outlook In South Alberta More Favorable Than North Area

Lack of moisture has precluded crop outlook in the northern section of the province from being as favorable as that of the southern section where there has been more rain, according to the fourth fortnightly crop report of the Alberta agriculture department, released on Wednesday by authority of Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister.

Wheat acreage in the province has increased by seven per cent over last year, states the report.

Some heavy rains of an inch or more have covered large areas in the recognized drought area, states the report. These rains have insured good growing conditions and supported the heavily stooled crops. Such conditions permit rapid recovery from any insect damage and have minimized soil drifting, since crops are now tall enough to effect shelter. All grain is seeded except for some re-seeding in the north, where cutworm damage is evident. The Peace River country and the territory north east of this city are reported as particularly dry.

Grasshoppers have completed hatching over a large area. In the most heavily infested areas good rains have reduced the damage considerably, although south-east of this city more damage is reported, not altogether from the infestation, but partially because of lighter crops and less rainfall. It is to be noted that poison bait has given remarkable kills and effective control.

Forage crops in irrigated districts have made splendid growth and haying has started. Some prairie wool and rye for hay is being harvested. The country where most forage crops are grown has not completed seeding through lack of rain.

GOOD PASTURE

Ranges and native pastures in the south have not been as productive for many years and the parts that are not over-grazed are producing well. The drier parts of the province report pastures deteriorating which are normally green at this season. Stockmen report cattle fattening and calves making rapid growth.

The wheat acreage for the province has been increased by seven per cent. Oat acreage has increased in the mixed farming area by three per cent.

BARLEY NORMAL

Barley remains about normal. Fall rye has increased in some districts from 30 to 50 per cent., but the total acreage has not increased more than 12 per cent., the principal increase being in the drought areas. Corn acreages in the northern part of the province have decreased slightly because of drought and reluctance to seed before general rains.

Livestock are reported in "excellent to good condition" in almost all parts of the province. In the Peace River district and in the territory northeast of this city, general rains are required to improve pastures. Improved feed conditions and favorable price for fat cattle are creating some demand for replacement stock. The lamb crop is satisfactory and spring calves are in good condition.

POULTRY DOING WELL

Poultry are doing well according to information available.

Production of dairy materials is reported strong, despite the lower price level. At a number of points considerable increase in production has occurred, due to favorable pasture conditions. For the three weeks ending June 18, the estimated increase for butter-fat over the corresponding period of 1937, is 26.2 per cent. Estimated increase of butter-fat for particular areas are: North, 33.4 per cent.; central, 18.9 per cent., and south, 28.3 per cent.

QUIET RADIO RECEPTION IS ON THE BOOKS

OTTAWA, June 29—The world may expect a comparatively quiet period for radio reception and other communication during the coming four or five years, Dr. Harlan Stetson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology predicted Tuesday, for the number of sunspots is decreasing.

Addressing the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its summer meeting here the Boston, Mass., astronomer declared the maximum intensity of activity on the sun was apparently reached in July, 1937.

BILL WINDRUM, FLYING ACE, TO FIGHT FOR SEAT

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., June 29—W. J. Windrum, Canadian Airways ace pilot, is back in the city today, a full-fledged candidate in the forthcoming deferred election in Athabasca constituency.

Windrum filed his nomination papers Monday with the returning officer at Isle a La Crosse. He is running under the Liberal banner, endorsed by a Liberal nominating convention held at Goldfields this spring.

George Midgley, Goldfields, is acting as Mr. Windrum's agent.

Nominations close at two o'clock, June 30, with the election on July 28.

Windrum was recently made acting superintendent of the Saskatchewan district of Canadian Airways, following the departure of W. E. Gilbert to take over the Vancouver superintendency.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT DIVISIONS WILL GET BIG BOOST

LONDON, June 29—Plans to increase Great Britain's specialized anti-aircraft divisions to a strength of nearly 100,000 men and to create a special section of the imperial general staff responsible for anti-aircraft defence were announced in the House of Commons Tuesday by Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary for war.

He told the house it was intended to increase the present strength of 43,000 men in this arm of defence to 100,000 and to marshall them in five divisions under the command of a lieutenant general.

Miners Caught In Rock Crash

BICKNELL, Ind., June 29.—Twenty tons of slate crashed Tuesday upon two miners in the American number one coal mine near here, crushing them to death. The victims were Clifford Page, 46, and John Fairhurst, 50. Herman Collins dived beneath a conveyor and escaped the falling slate.

PROSPERITY IS DECLARED TO BE POLITICAL

Resources Will Sustain Priming For Some Time, Is Contention

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

OTTAWA, June 29.—America has already reached, or will reach late in 1938, the bottom of the present depression, Leonard P. Ayres, economist of the Cleveland Trust Company, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science here Tuesday.

Characterizing the United States government's $3,753,000,000 spending program as "politically ordained prosperity," Ayres admitted it will spur business activity and that "American resources are so great that they can support such a program for a long time to come."

SERIOUS CONDITION

However, he added, this is a very serious condition, for in the long run the new system of political prosperity can be made to work well enough to "destroy gradually the habits of self-help and enterprise on which a free society depends."

As the United States enters on its "second vast experiment in pump priming" it is well on the way toward the control of business "By acting as the principal occupation is not industry, finance, agriculture or trade, but the winning of elections," he told the association's economics section.

MAJOR FACTORS

Nevertheless, he said, business, after continuing its present slump through August, will probably pick up materially from September, through December and on into 1939. The two major influencing factors will be the course of business abroad, which may restrict but not prevent recovery, and the growing crisis among American railroads.

Sound recovery in the United States and Canada will not get under way, he added, until the national income produced in the two countries stops shrinking, and it must be based on the production of such "durable" goods as building materials, machinery, automobiles, furniture, bridges, ships and locomotives.

Houses Poor Investment Meighen Says

OTTAWA, June 29.—The only reason houses are not being built in Canada is that they are not a good investment, Senator Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, said in the Senate Tuesday. Because of taxation and other hazards, the government was being called upon to enter into that field and do what the individual was unwilling to do.

Japan Controls Careers Of All Technical Men

TOKYO, June 29—The Japanese government today used its national mobilization act as a lever to conscript labor for the dominion industry, to ban cotton-manufacture for all domestic purposes except military, and to assume rigid control over the careers of all engineering and technical experts.

The cabinet decreed no graduate of engineering or other technical schools and colleges may be employed without government permission and all engineering and technical experts must be subject to official registry.

Planes Using New Design Propellers

WINNIPEG, June 29—Among the first of the larger transport aircraft to be equipped with the hydromatic full-feathering propellers which revolutionize the safety factor of aviation are the two new Lockheed 14's acquired by Trans-Canada Air Lines.

The new propellers enable the pilot to stop his engines in midair without damaging the motor and, if necessary, to cruise with safety on one engine they are equipped with a device which gives the equivalent advantage of an added 2,000 feet ceiling from which to make a safe landing.

Caucus Moves Action in Event of Bank Withdrawals

Departments to Prepare to Give Banking Service

Calling of Special Session Legislature Left To Government—Credit Houses Or Scrip Money Operation Seen

To meet the situation which has been created by threatened withdrawal of banks from rural areas, members of the Social Credit party in caucus on Tuesday agreed that the provincial treasury department, in conjunction with the trade and industry department "should make preparations for the provision of satisfactory services being available to the people to yield them material benefits."

Joint action by the treasury and trade and industry departments was agreed upon "until the question of the bank's duty to the people has been satisfactorily settled."

The caucus, which commenced on Monday, was concluded with a night sitting on Tuesday.

SPECIAL SESSION

One of the most important decisions reached at the caucus was that calling of a special session of the legislature would be at the discretion of the government.

Some discussion took place regarding the question of a special session and it was agreed that at present there was no need of one, but that if, in the light of subsequent developments, such session was deemed necessary, then the government would call it.

Most of the members left for their homes on Tuesday night.

It was stated that the crop insurance scheme of the production tax likely would be dropped unless there is a wider demand for it.

NOTHING DEFINITE

Regarding the eminent plans of the treasury and trade and industry departments to provide satisfactory services in case the banks withdrew entirely, it was learned that nothing definite has been drafted as yet. So far the plan has not been discussed and the decision was for the departments to get together and commence work on whatever action was deemed necessary.

The plan might be the establishment of a system of credit houses or it might be, as has been suggested in some quarters, a revival of the prosperity certificates plan, without the stamps.

However, so far, nothing concrete has been drafted.

SCHOOL PROBE IS URGED FOR CITY SYSTEM

Application For Provincial Commission Survey Recommended To Board

Owing to the recent defeat of the Edmonton Public School board's $300,000 money bylaw providing for the construction of two new West End schools, the board will consider applying for the appointment of a three-member provincial commission to investigate operation of the school system here. The commission would be required to probe the question of accommodation particularly.

Recommended application to the provincial government for appointment of a commission is contained in a notice of motion submitted at Tuesday night's meeting of the board by Trustee Dr. Walter Morrish, M.L.A. It will be considered at the board's next meeting.

SURVEY NECESSARY

The motion reads: "Whereas the Edmonton Public School board bylaw for new schools has been defeated by the taxpayers; whereas there exists a situation of lack of accommodation in the system; whereas there is a great difference of opinion among the taxpayers, staff and educational authorities on matters pertaining to educational facilities, salaries paid to our employees, we are of the opinion that a comprehensive survey of our system is necessary.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we petition the government of the province of Alberta to appoint a commission of three to report on the financial, administrative and educational policy of the Edmonton Public School board."

As the proposal was placed before trustees in the form of a notice of motion, the question was not open for discussion at Tuesday's meeting.

The board's plan to provide additional school accommodation in the West End was defeated when the $300,000 money bylaw which would have authorized funds for building was rejected by public school ratepayers in a plebiscite taken June 15 last. The proposal was defeated by a majority of only 12 votes, 1,192 ratepayers voting for the bylaw and 1,204 against.

Report on existing school accommodation following the defeat of the bylaw was tabled pending a report from Dr. G. F. McNally, deputy minister of education for the provincial government.

12 APPLICANTS

Dealing with other business as a committee of the whole, the board interviewed 12 applicants for the position of assistant superintendent of schools, the interviews being held in camera. It is expected the new appointment will be announced July 12.

It was reported a vacation school for students would again be held at Victoria school this summer from August 4 to 24.

Resignations from the teaching staff were accepted from Florence B. Hallock, Stella Clement, Mollie C. Brown, Margaret Jonason and Jean M. Rowland.

One year's leave of absence was granted L. D. Moore and Ruby C. Nash.

Thieves broke into the office of Walter Ramsay's greenhouse at 11018 110 street, sometime Tuesday night and carried away the cash register, broke it open, only to discover that it was empty, police reported Wednesday. They said that the intruders had lifted an unlatched window. Employees of the firm had emptied the till before locking up for the night.

TRIBUTE PAID JOHN M. IMRIE HERE TUESDAY

Honored For Leadership In Preparing Submission To Commission

The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce honored John M. Imrie Tuesday night, at a special testimonial banquet in the Macdonald hotel for his leadership in preparing the submission to the Rowell committee on behalf of the chamber's special committee of which he was chairman.

Joining to pay tribute to Mr. Imrie, were leading business and professional men, in addition to His Honor, J. C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor of Alberta, and His Honor, Chief Justice Horace Harvey, who lauded the guest of honor in a felicitous address.

L. Y. Cairns, K.C. president of the Chamber of Commerce, was chairman.

Emblematic of the Chamber's esteem was an oil painting of himself presented to Mr. Imrie on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce.

Work of Mr. Imrie before the Rowell Commission had won plaudits throughout the dominion and would be remembered by the Edmonton Chamber as long as it endured, "which would be forever," President Cairns remarked.

Declaring he deemed it a privilege to be associated in this public tribute to Mr. Imrie, Chief Justice Harvey said that Mr. Justice Rowell, head of the commission, had told him that Mr. Imrie's oral presentation was the best to which the investigating body listened till that date.

"From what has been submitted to the commission since then, I think we may without impropriety or extravagance say that the Chamber submission has not lost that proud place of pre-eminence," he added.

WON RECOGNITION

The respect Mr. Imrie has earned is further demonstrated by the recognition he has won in eastern Canada and latterly in the United States, he added.

Presentation of the oil painting to Mr. Imrie was made by Chief Justice Harvey.

Receiving an ovation, Mr. Imrie, in quiet dignity, thanked members "out of a very full and grateful heart" for this public tribute.

Recognition by one's fellowcitizens of Edmonton was a greater honor than any more formal triumph secured elsewhere, he began.

FRAILTIES IGNORED

It meant that one's frailties were ignored and only one's strength remembered, he explained.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in its brief to the Royal Commission had singled out the Edmonton case for special commendation. Only one other chamber of commerce of trade brief had thus been honored, he continued.

Recalling the arduous labor involved in the brief's presentation, Mr. Imrie said that despite that, he would treasure the experience as one of the highlights in his life.

The seventeen others members of the chamber committee had been "loyal men, true men, good men," with whom it had been a privilege to work and for whose services he was especially grateful.

WORK OF FOUR MEN

Admitting that it was "invidious" to select any special names for recognition, Mr. Imrie said he knew the committee would like him to point to the work of four men who bore a large part of the burden.

First was "Mr. John Blue, our indefatigable, our incomparable secretary-manager, with his picturesque style" who helped gather data as well as write sections of the brief dealing with Alberta's early history.

Then came the work of Frank Pepper, chairman of the wholesale section of the Chamber, who was praised for his oral submission to the commission on differentials in the freight rate structure of Canada, a submission described by Mr. Imrie as an "absolute masterpiece."

Ronald Maitland also was praised for his checking of all legal references, as was F. G. Winspear for a similar verification of the brief's statistics.

"To every member of the special committee I wish to say 'thank you' for good work well done, and to all of you I now return added thanks for this unexpected honor of the portrait and the esteem it symbolizes."

Mr. Imrie also thanked the Chamber for its courtesy in sending Mrs. Imrie a beautiful bouquet of roses.

The Inquiring Reporter

Threats of reprisals on Italian cities by the Spanish government unless the bombing of government held cities on the war front cease, caused The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter to seek opinions from several Edmonton citizens on the question of whether the threatened reprisals are just a bluff or will be carried out.

The replies received follow:

ALDERMAN J. T. McCREATH: It is hard to say whether it is bluff or not. I am inclined to think it is, but there is the possibility that a desperate nation may take desperate action. If Italian towns are bombed, a general European conflict is bound to follow. The situation is loaded with dynamite.

* * *

WILLIAM "PADDY" GRIFFIN, Canadian Legion executive: It would appear that Italian airplanes are bombing the Spanish towns and I can see no reason why reprisals against Italian towns should not be taken by the Spanish air force. It would mean a general European war, and it is to be hoped that such drastic action will not be taken.

* * *

HERBERT R. READE, returned soldier: It would appear to me that the Spanish government is bluffing. There is no absolute proof that the Italian air force is responsible for bombing of open Spanish towns. Any reprisal by the Spanish government would be taken as an act of war by the Italian authorities and a general European conflict would be precipitated.

RECOVER BODY OF R. FOSTER

Body of Robert Foster, drowned when the canoe in which he and a companion were riding capsized in the Saskatchewan river just below the Clover Bar road bridge Monday evening last week, was recovered by Royal Canadian Mounted Police Tuesday afternoon.

Investigation reports that the body of a man had been washed up on a sand bar three miles east of Oliver, police discovered. That it was the body of Foster, Dr. E. A. Braithwaite announced that no inquest will be held.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from Foster and McGarvey's undertaking parlors. He leaves his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. Foster, 11208 90 street, and three brothers, Ernest, William and Arnold.

Police Court

Pleading guilty to driving his truck over 35 miles an hour on highway No. 1, Ernest Lange was fined $15 and costs by Magistrate A. H. Gibson, in Police Court, Wednesday morning.

* * *

Case of Clarence Fairbanks, charged by Frances Hart with assault, was adjourned until Thursday, June 30.

* * *

Peter Brodyk, charged with fraud on two counts, was granted an adjournment of eight days.

* * *

Summons issued to Mrs. M. Ross on a dog license charge was quashed when it was found it referred to a dog disposed of six months ago. Mrs. Ross did not appear in police court.

Plan Educational Meetings In City

Organization plans for fall meetings were made by the Workers' Educational Association at a meeting held in the Labor hall Tuesday evening, presided over by Robert McCreath.

Delegates from 12 Labor units intimated study groups would be selected from their membership and meetings immediately arranged for these groups to prepare for fall lectures. It is anticipated that university professors will address a series of meetings commencing in late August or early September.

At the first meeting following the summer holiday period a board of management for the classes will be appointed.

Fire-Fighters Have Chance To Pause

Renewed rains in the northern section of the province have further relieved the forest fire situation, according to officials of the forestry branch of the provincial lands and mines department.

Fire-fighters have been given a chance to pause and survey the situation and align themselves for a drive to completely extinguish the various blazes.

Wherever rain has fallen the situation has been eased and the task of the crews made easier.

On Wednesday, rain was reported from Dawson Creek, Pouce Coupe, Grande Prairie, Sexsmith, Spirit River, Fairview, Berwyn, Falher and other points.

Officials are hopeful that rain has fallen at unreported points so that the country has been well covered.

Looking Them Over

Tough Newsie Henry Favored Curlers Move

THURSDAY the amateur golf aces of Alberta will fire their best shots in the qualifying round of the provincial tourney which will hold the sporting spotlight through until the late afternoon of July 3 at the Edmonton Golf and Country Club. The draw for this opening round shows only two aces missing from the picture—Stew Vickers and Kemp Richardson of Calgary. Edmonton contenders dominate the entry in point of numbers and with Henry Martell defending the championship, Edmonton also rates the favored city to retain major honors.

While Calgary's entry will be comparatively small, it will pack plenty of power and considerable color. Much of this color will be supplied by Charlie Anderson, a 16-year-old newsie, who provided a sensation in the recent Calgary city open.

When he played in this stiff competition, Charlie had just recovered from an attack of scarlet fever and he was forced to use a number two iron for putting since his meagre bag of clubs did not contain a putter. But these handicaps didn't bother Charlie. He carded an 80 and an 81 in the first half of the tourney and then he came back stronger than ever with a 70 and 71 in the final half at the Municipal for a 72-hole total of 302.

Back in good physical condition again and equipped with the clubs he lacked before, this newsie is likely to cause a lot of havoc in the ranks when he comes with eyes on the title.

Shooting better golf than ever before, Henry Martell will be mighty hard to stop from engraving his name on the championship mug for another year. A year ago sub-par rounds were things he accomplished now and then. This season they are a regular habit with him. However, there is enough high powered talent listed in the draw to make the tourney a bristling battle all the way. Although he is the heavy favorite, Henry will have no walk-over if he wins the title.

Seek to Break Red Deer Grip

TODAY young Art Barnesly of Lethbridge is seeking to break the monopoly which Red Deer golfers threaten to set up so far as the Alberta country districts championship is concerned. Last year Tony Savage won this trophy at Calgary, and now Joe Welsh of Red Deer is fighting it out with Barnesly here at the Country Club.

Joe tells me that the time is not far distant when the Red Deer course will start putting in a few grass greens. Established shortly after the war, this course has been steadily developed into one of the best 18-hole layouts in western Canada. Its finances now have reached a point where the executive can plan the replacement of sand greens with grass. It is likely that a water tower will first be installed at the club house for showers to supply water for the ninth and 18th greens that are close to it. A pumping system from the river may be worked out later for the other greens.

Northern Curling Association Proposed

PLANS that have been discussed for a long time are apparently moving toward definite action in the matter of setting up a Peace River Curling Association. L. C. Porteous of the Grande Prairie Curling Club has circularized all curling clubs from Smith northward and throughout the Peace River block to obtain their opinions on the proposal.

The objects of the contemplated association are the furthering of curling and making it possible for these northern clubs to enter British Consols competition directly.

For some time there has been a feeling in the north that owing to its geographical position it is under a handicap so far as the British Consols, provincial elimination event leading to the Macdonald Brier, is concerned. At present the north is considered under the supervision of the Alberta Curling Association and to enter the Consols event rinks from the north must first play through the annual bonspiel of the association here—a matter of a week. They then are eligible for the Consols competition. They can not enter this event, however, unless they first play through the spiel here.

This means that northern rinks have to be away from home for something like two weeks. Southern Alberta has its own curling association which is a distinct body from the Alberta Curling Association. The southern body holds its own bonspiel in Calgary, gets a winner in the Consols competition and then that winner plays off with the winner from here for the right to represent Alberta at Toronto. It appears that the northern section of the province would like to set up an organization similar to that in the south.

If the northern curlers have hopes of getting a Consols competition of their own with their winner going direct to Toronto, there seems to be little hope of success although it is true that Northern Ontario enters a Brier rink of its own in the Toronto final for the Dominion championship.

Pats Hold Lead Ladies' Softball League

Pushing across the winning run in the ninth inning, Army and Navy Pats chalked up their fifth straight win of the season in the ladies' softball league as they downed Black and White Stores 9-8 in a loosely played game at Boyle street last night. The win left the Pats well in the lead of the feminine loop.

It was the second time these clubs have met in league play and the second time Pats emerged with a one-run margin.

But last night's game didn't produce anywhere near the high standard of ball displayed in the first game, when Pats triumphed 1-0. There were 14 errors charged against the clubs last night.

But it was a mighty thrilling game despite the errors, with Black and White staging a game rally to tie up the game in the seventh inning. There was little to choose between the pitching of Eileen Rentoul of Black and White and Winnie Gallen of Pats. Both whiffed three batters, issued two bases on balls and Winnie had two less hits registered against her during the evening.

Kay Cairns connected for a home run in the seventh inning off Gallen, while Delia Griffen garnered a three bagger and Viki Ewasiuk and Joyce Cameron blasted out bingles that were good for an extra base.

Ready To Defend Title

The gent and the swing shown above are the major worries of the pack of golfers who will tee off Thursday morning at the Edmonton Golf and Country Club in search of the Alberta amateur championship. The gent is Henry Martell, defending champion, and the swing is dynamite.

Sugar beets are a great crop stimulator. After ground has been used for them other crops are found to increase 50 to 80 per cent in tonnage.

70 Golfers Entered For Provincial Tourney

BRIGHT and early Thursday morning the boys will start popping them off the first tee at the Edmonton Golf and Country Club in the qualifying round of the Alberta amateur golf championships. Last night President Bruce Massie of the Alberta Golf Association released the draw sheet for the 70 golfers entered, a total of 69 names—16 of which were juniors playing for their own provincial championship.

Post entries will be accepted at the starting tee up until 1 p.m. Thursday and it is expected another ten or fifteen competitors will come in under this arrangement.

The qualifying round will consist of 18 holes of medal play. The lowest 32 scores go into the championship flight, while the remaining contenders will be grouped into flights of 16 each. Each round, with the exception of the final, will be 18 holes of match play. The final will be a 36-hole affair timed to get underway Sunday at 9 a.m.

JUNIOR MEDAL PLAY

The junior championship will be decided on 36 holes of medal play. Any junior may however use his first 18-hole round to qualify for the men's championship provided he pays the required entrance fee. The juniors will complete their 36 holes of medal play on Thursday.

Calgary's contingent will consist of Johnny Richardson, Johnny Rhodes, Bill Graves, Charlie Anderson, Duane Barr, Don Blaker, J. T. Milne, Ed Shuman, Jack and Harry Wittup, Harry Webb, Charlie Ronson, Vic Ockenden and Frank Berke. Stew Vickers and Kemp Richardson will be unable to compete this year.

HOGAN HERE

From Jasper comes long Jimmy Hogan and for two days now he has been sharpening up over the Country Club course, doing the 18 holes in even par or one or two more. The experts have him tagged as one of the major contenders.

Recent rains have left the greens and fairways at the Country Club in fine condition, the course has been primped up all the way around and everything set for four days of sizzling golf.

Veteran Opposes Youth for Honors

Welsh of Red Deer Defeats Martin and Wellman—Barnesly Eliminates Soberg and Moyer—Country Aces Play Crisp Brand of Golf

By JACK KELLY

TODAY Joe Welsh, sturdy veteran shotmaker from Red Deer, is battling young Art Barnesly, classy Lethbridge ace, in the 36-hole final over the Edmonton Country Club course that will determine the Alberta country districts' golf championship. These two are the sole survivors of a competition that started out with upwards of 3,000 golfers competing from 49 clubs in all parts of Alberta.

Barnesly entered the final with a three and two victory over Cliff Soberg of Camrose in the first round and a two and one win over Jack Moyer of Medicine Hat in the semi-final. Joe Welsh advanced by defeating Dave Martin of Hardisty district four and two in the morning round and Ed Wellman of Blackie three and two in the semi-final. Wellman entered the semi-final by defeating Dave Grosset of Drumheller district three and two, while Moyer scored a five and four win over Jack Ridington of Vermilion.

Putting on the soft, spacious greens of the Country Club proved a tough problem for the kingpins of the country clubs where the small, oiled and "greens" require a somewhat different technique. With the exception of these extra putts, the country aces had cards that would compare favorably with those in the upper circle of city golfdom.

Playing Wellman in the semi-final, Welsh of Red Deer won the first two holes in even pars while his opponent was one stroke over par on each. They halved the third in pars. Welsh went three-up on the fourth with a par three against a four. Wellman won the fifth with a par four against Welsh's five. On the sixth the Red Deer ace went three-up again with a par against one over. Wellman came back to take the seventh with a par four. They halved the eighth, both taking one over par. A par four on the ninth against a five made Welsh three-up as they crossed the ravine to the second nine.

Wellman won the 10th with a neat par four as Welsh got into a bit of trouble and needed a six. On the 11th, the 135-yard pitch down into a gulch, Welsh chalked up a birdie two to again gain a three-hole lead. He made it four-up on the 12th with a par four against Wellman's five. They halved the 13th in one more than par. Fighting up hill, Wellman won the 14th and 15th with par fours against a five and six by Welsh.

WATERLOO FOR WELLMAN

The pipe-stem fairway of the 16th proved Wellman's Waterloo. Playing it as a full dog-leg by parking his drive on the flat ground north of the ravine that narrows the fairway to a mere path, Wellman's spoon shot was low and short, dropping into the long grass bordering

KAYCEES, CARDS PLAY 11 INNINGS TO 4-4 TIE

George Green Has Near Perfect Game

Next Game—Thursday, Renfrew Park, 6.30 p.m., Columbus Club vs. Arrow Busses.

By JACK DEAKIN

SENIOR baseball standings remain unchanged as darkness crowded Columbus Club and Army and Navy Cardinals to the sidelines Tuesday at Renfrew Park after 11 innings of play which took nearly two and one-half hours, and which ended in a 4-4 deadlock. The tie score means "no dice" as far as percentage points are concerned, and leaves the league race as close and as hot as ever.

Tommy Brant of the Cardinals and Chief Jimmy Rattlesnake, of the Columbus Club were the moundsmen in the 11 inning pitching duel. This pair matched strikes most of the way after the early three innings and both finished strongly as batsmen failed to clip their slants for base blows. Fielding departments, too, raced along on even basis—both teams made simple errors—the Columbus mishaps being costly in the early innings and the Cards being responsible for the tie score in the seventh.

Cardinals looked like winners in the early innings. They clipped Chief James for a hit in the first frame, which, combined with Eddie Bergen's error, brought home a run. Four hits, and then Herring's bad error in left field, sent the Cardinal lead soaring as they scored three runs.

CHIEF JIM CURVES 'EM

But after that second frame, Chief James turned on his wide curve pitch which won a round-house and coming in as big as a balloon. But as big as it was, it was elusive and it silenced the Cards for the remaining nine innings.

Columbus Club broke through the Cardinal defence in the second inning. Bob Fritz was given first on balls, he took second on a passed ball by Catcher Lutz and then scored on an error to Wismer. Columbus got two more runs in the third as Vergette singled, went to second as Rattlesnake took a walk on pitched balls. Lutz' error advanced both runners with Vergette scoring on a fielder's choice and Chief Jimmy Comes Back on Williams' error.

GIFTED TYING RUN

Tommy Brant turned on the pressure in an effort to maintain that slight lead, but a costly error by Fred Kokura in the seventh "gifted" the game. Kokura failed to pick up Delmar's grounder and play it safe to first base. Delmar rested contentedly at second. Vergette's big bon-bhaw blow tied up the score as Delmar drifted across the plate.

From then on it was nip and tuck. Columbus Club came within an ace of winning the game in the tenth. They crammed the corners but Packwood failed to get the single which would have scored one and maybe two runs.

GEORGE GREEN STARS

George Green, Cardinal centre fielder, was the star of the game. George was consistent in his batting. He laced out five hits in six trips, all of them singles. Only Chief Jimmy's stab at one of Green's line drives prevented George from having a perfect day at the bat—six hits in six tries. Green hit safely in the first, second, fourth, sixth and 11th innings. In the eighth Green laced a hot one at Jimmy, shoulder high. The Chief barely managed to get his "meat" hand on the drive, knock it down and throw Green out at first base. It was tough luck for the fleet centre guardian for he was worthy of six bingles.

Failure by the next four batters under Green to get hits was a major fact in the Cardinal downfall. Of the five times Green reached first base he scored only one run and that was not because his mate hit him around. Next in line for batting honors on the Cards were Stewart and Brant. They got two hits each.

McPEAK IS OKAY

In the fielding departments Rupert McPeak stole some of the limelight with his remarkable catch in left field on Bergen's drive. McPeak literally robbed Bergen when he picked a hard drive off of the fence.

Rattlesnake and Brant split hurling honors fairly well. Rattlesnake had the first two bad innings in which he was clipped for five hits and all four runs. After that Jimmy had full control of Cardinal batters.

Brant hurled three-hit ball for the first six frames. He was touched for six hits in the last five. Brant had four walks while Rattler gave five. Both had 11 strikeouts.

Chicago Youth Fatally Injured In Amateur Fight

CHICAGO, June 29—A crowd of 4,000 fans cheered Monday night as Peter Cribari's opponent rallied in the final round of an amateur boxing tournament bout to win by a knockout.

A half hour later the crowd sat silent, stunned by an announcement that Cribari had died. The 18-year-old youth, carried from the ring to a nearby fieldhouse, died without regaining consciousness.

Ring officials said no hard blows had been struck in the first two rounds. In the third Cribari went down with a left to the body and a right to the body and a right to the jaw.

The youths were boxing in the novice class of the Chicago Park district tournament. Grief stricken, Ray Maher, the victorious boxer, fled from the fieldhouse.

Rampaging Indians Belt Detroit for 5-4 Triumph

CLEVELAND, June 29.—A crowd of 18,000 saw the American league-leading Indians belt Tommy Bridges for five runs in the second inning and then hang on to gain a 5-4 decision over Detroit Tigers that ran the Indians' league lead to 1½ games over the rained-out Yankees.

Jeff Heath led off on Bridges with a triple; Earl Averill walked, and both came riding home as Hal Trosky boosted his 11th homer over the right field wall. A moment later Ken Keltner followed that with a terrific blast that cleared the centre field fence.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

PITTSBURGH, June 29—Cincinnati Reds, who have come to rely on Johnny Vander Meer as much as Johnny relies on his pet change, accomplished a lot of things Tuesday behind another of the young southpaw's handsome pitching jobs.

They beat the Pirates 5-2; cut New York Giants' National League baseball lead to a game and a half; widened their margin over the third-place Cubs by a full game, and chalked up their first triumph at Forbes Field since Aug. 11, 1936.

Vander Meer settled down and pitched one-hit ball for the last six innings in gaining his 10th victory of the season and his ninth in succession.

Wrestlers Take Holiday From Mat Wars Friday

PROMOTER MIKE CUTCHER announced that there would be no wrestling match this Friday night, July 1, at the Empire Theatre because of the Dominion Day celebrations.

Cutcher is busy lining up a card for the following Friday evening, July 8, when he will present several new faces to Edmonton mat fans. He will announce his main event in the next few days.

And although he has no bouts to worry about this Friday, Promoter Mike's furrowed brow has an additional wrinkle. That terrible Turk, Batrain Bey, is causing trouble again. Bey has been howling and pleading for a mud match ever since his arrival, and now just when Mike starts planning one, Bey demands that he be appointed a "rules committee" of one. In fact the Bey threatens to leave Edmonton flat, assuming his loss if Cutcher doesn't grant his demands. He says he'll up and leave the country.

DIRTY AFFAIR

Bey wants the mud match wrestled in his style, which means, by his past appearances, would be a rather dirty affair. Cutcher claims it will be plenty dirty under all Bey's rules. Byrons claims that his rules are identical with those used in Europe.

Veloble Bob Cummings could laughed when he heard of Bey's demands. "Say just wait 'til that Batry Turk starts wallowing around in this gumbo in here," grinned Robert. "He'll have a lot of things on his mind besides pulling dirty tricks, and I'll bet he doesn't try biting a hunk out of his opponent either."

the road in the ravine. He was still there after two man tries and conceded the match.

Jack Moyer turned in some sparkling golf in his semi-final match with Barnesly of Lethbridge but it wasn't quite good enough. Fourth with a birdie two Barnesly took the fifth while Moyer won the sixth and seventh to go three up. Barnesly came back to win the eighth with a birdie three and the ninth with a par four that left him one-down at the turn.

The 10th was won by Barnesly and Moyer countered by taking the 11th in par. They were both one over par on the 12th. Then Barnesly launched his big drive and took the 13th, 14th and 15th with pars. Moyer was one over par on each of these holes, but he slapped the ball home for a birdie four on the 16th, the bad baby of the layout. Barnesly conceded the hole when his drive went over the river bank. Two good wood shots gave Barnesly a birdie on the 17th and the match when Moyer missed a putt a couple of inches and needed a six

Marathon Golf Tourney Planned Over Fenway Links

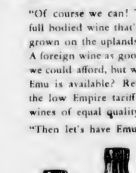

NEW YORK, June 29 — The longest American medal play golf tournament and one of the biggest purses will be played at the Fenway Golf Club, White Plains, N.Y., Sept. 22 to 25, Fred Corcoran, chairman to the United States professional Golfers' Association Tournament Bureau announced Tuesday. A purse totalling $12,500 has been posted for the 108-hole tournament to be staged by the Westchester P. G. A. The tourney will consist of 18 holes on each of the first two days and 36 holes each of the last two.

The idea of the marathon tourney was suggested as a fairer test than the ordinary 72-hole event, since the extra 36-holes would tend to offset "breaks" in the weather and golfing luck.

"Of course we can! This is Emu wine—the rich, full bodied wine that's made from the finest grapes grown on the uplands of sunny, southern Australia. A foreign wine as good as this would cost more than we could afford, but who wants a foreign wine when Emu is available? Remember, Emu comes in under the low Empire tariff—costs a fraction of foreign wines of equal quality."

"Then let's have Emu—often!"

Hamburg once was the old horseshoe centre of the world, and it all came about by accident. Ships sailing from Hamburg to China began carrying loads of old horseshoes as ballast, but the Chinese found that the shoes could be cut in two, and ground into razors. But only shoes shipped from Hamburg found a market.

DRAB SESSION ON 'PEG MART

WINNIPEG, June 29. — New-crop Winnipeg wheat futures maintained fractional gains at the close of a drab session today in which bulk of dealings involved switching of holding from July to the deferred positions. Final values were 1 lower and ¼ higher, July $1.02, October 84¼-⅜, November 83¼ and December 81⅝ cents.

All wheat futures advanced about a cent or more in early operations, influenced by disappointing precipitation in western Canada overnight and steadiness on Chicago.

Chicago failed to hold its mid-session gains due to light buying power and lack of export demand. Liverpool closed ⅝-⅜d lower.

Buenos Aires was on holiday.

Cash wheat again was neglected. Spreads on Nos. 1, 2 and 3 northern grades eased about a cent but durums were steady on odd-car sales.

Coarse grain dealings picked up today with mills entering the market for oats and rye being purchased against sales at Chicago. Some export demand for barley also was mentioned. Prices averaged slightly higher near the close.

CONSULTATION OF DOMINIONS NOW IS URGED

Attitude to Issues in Mother Country Should Be Heard

British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, June 29.—As Conservatives opened a press campaign to bolster Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's prestige with the British public in view of the growing unpopularity of his attitude toward the bombing of British ships in Spanish waters, the Evening Standard suggests that the British government should immediately consult all the Empire governments regarding the important issues confronting the mother country.

"They should be asked to express opinions on the problems which confront Britain and the conclusions to which they come should have a strong influence in the determination of British policy by Downing Street," says the Standard, suggesting that radio-telephone be used so that all the cabinets of the Empire could hold a session simultaneously and pass opinions and information back and forward just as if they were meeting in one room.

"Picture the secretary of state for foreign affairs outlining from a cabinet room in Downing street the problems which confront Britain and the lines on which the British government is acting. Statesmen of the dominions will hear every word and catch every shade of meaning which only the human voice can give and which written records cannot convey," says the Standard writer, who points out that with present-day apparatus the conferences could be kept secret from outside sources.

ELECTION NOT IN SIGHT

The Standard discounts the suggestion that Prime Minister Chamberlain will not go to the country unless his hand is absolutely forced.

"At need—although thoughtful men of all parties must hope that the need may be postponed to less critical times—he would submit the issue to the country. That he would carry the country with him on that appeal there is not the shadow of a doubt," says the Standard.

First indication that the Tory press campaign to bolster Mr. Chamberlain was under way came when the Evening Standard defended the prime minister with sneering references to Geoffrey Manders, Liberal member, who had attacked Mr. Chamberlain for giving information to the American press.

Immediately following the influential Lord Cecil's statement that he was no longer a government supporter such prominent journalists of divergent opinions as J. L. Garvin, James Douglas, Arnold Bentley and "Scrutator," joined hands to defend the prime minister.

BETWEEN WORLD AND WAR

Writing in the Observer Garvin said: "We said of him months ago that he was standing like no other man between the world and war. It was true then, and it is truer still today."

James Douglas, in the Sunday Express, wrote that "There is no doubt that Neville Chamberlain is the greatest peace-maker since Walpole and Pitt. His policy of peace is unshaken and unshakeable. He is the pivot pillar of the peace of Europe, and he is doing what Walpole and Pitt did to save Great Britain and Europe from the sorrows of war."

AIR FORCE TO BE EXPANDED IN PERSONNEL

British United Press

LONDON, June 29.—Sir Kingsley Wood, air minister, recently announced a drive to increase the strength of the Royal Air Force personnel by more than 40 per cent.

He will seek by March, 1939, to recruit more than 2,100 pilots, more than 500 observers, nearly 26,000 tradesmen and unskilled workers, and more than 3,000 boys.

The result will be to add more than 30,000 men to the air force, which now numbers 72,000.

The men to be recruited will equal in number the entire strength of the air force before the expansion program began in 1935.

It was explained that the increase was planned in consequence of the production of thousands of war planes and large quantities of equipment and air armament of all kinds.

Broomhall

With very little demand from abroad, better weather in Canada and expectations of large receipts in the U.S. it is not surprising that prices are declining. Although there is very little surplus wheat in the world, outside of the U.S. new crops are maturing and in a month or so the northern hemisphere will have quantities of new domestic wheat. The markets of the world will be called upon to absorb the hedge sales and unless flour sales, speculative purchases and cash wheat business improves materially, prices will likely decline until they reach a level at which consumption increases or climatic conditions again change for the worse.

UNEMPLOYED TO REGISTER AT BUREAUX

Jobless Want Reason For Re-registration To Be Clarified

VICTORIA, June 29.—Leaders of 500 single unemployed men who came here from Vancouver last week seeking a works project last night promised to support the government's request to register at branch employment offices.

"But," said a jobless spokesman, "we want the government to clarify its request for re-registration."

Monday Premier T. D. Pattullo announced temporary relief would be granted transients pending their transportation to their homes. He asked single homeless men to register "so that details of domicile may be obtained."

FARM LABOR NEEDED

Meanwhile from a member of the British Columbia legislature came the statement farm labor was in demand in the southern interior of the province.

Captain C. S. Leary (Liberal-Kaslo-Slocan) said farmers in southern interior districts needed berry and fruit pickers, haying help and general farm workers but couldn't get them.

HIKE FOR COAST

"The youngsters prefer to go to Vancouver for the excitement, they say," Capt. Leary said. "Between Hope and Kamloops we passed 40 of them, without blankets or luggage, all hiking towards the coast."

W. Atkinson, representative of district 18, United Mine Workers of America at Cumberland, B.C., promised the miners would support the jobless in their demand for work. He was one of several speakers at a jobless-sponsored mass meeting here last night.

Resolutions To Be Submitted To C.C.F. Convention

Delegates at a Canadian Labor party meeting Tuesday evening appointed W. H. Miller, president; O. Arneze, vice-president; W. H. O'Neill and E. J. Adams as an executive committee to draft resolutions to be submitted to the national convention of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation to be held in Edmonton July 27-29 inclusive.

Recent speeches made by Hon. W. Herridge at Halifax, and G. G. McGeer, M.P., Vancouver, in the House of Commons, were discussed and the suggestion made that they be invited to join the Labor movement, where they would find scope for their progressive views.

Gas Conservation Act Is Proclaimed Here Wednesday

An Order-in-Council has been approved and signed proclaiming the Alberta Gas Conservation Act passed at the last session of the legislature and providing for establishment of the gas conservation commission of three. The act is to come into force as from July 1.

The proclamation was signed by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, provincial secretary.

The commission, consisting of W. F. Knode, Texas oil and petroleum engineer; C. W. Dingman, director of the petroleum and natural gas division of the provincial lands and mines department, and Fred G. Coffin, auditor to the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners will commence functioning as such as from July 1.

Alberta Producers' Organization Urged

Seeking to benefit Alberta producers through the purchase in the province, of goods originating here, Fred C. Anderson, M.L.A., of Calgary, in an interview on Wednesday, declared that he was urging formation of a Provincial Producers Association.

Interviewed at the legislature buildings, Mr. Anderson, who remained over from attending the two-day Social Credit members' caucus to work on details of his plan, said: "I am trying to get producers together in this organization."

He explained that the association would be particularly valuable to producers in the matter of government buying. "I am interested in the man who pays wages," he said.

Mr. Anderson said that he had a letter from John Blue, secretary of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, offering co-operation in the plan, while the secretary of the Calgary Board of Trade also had offered co-operation. Mr. Anderson is returning to Calgary on Wednesday night.

King's Horse Wins At Newmarket

NEWMARKET, Eng., June 29.—The King today gained his first win of the racing season when Cosmopolitan, a chestnut colt by Sig Cosmo from Papilla, won the Stud Produce stakes for two-year-olds. The royal colt defeated Sir William Wadron's Academy by a head, with Prince Aly Khan's Jennie III, a head away, third in the field of 10.

PILOT CARRIES SERUM NORTH

Once again the airplane has proved its value as an aid in saving human life and as a result of a quick trip made from Edmonton to Grande Prairie on Sunday by Pilot Ted Field of the United Air Transport, high hopes are now held for the recovery of Mrs. H. W. Clarke of that town, who had been suffering from double pneumonia with little or no chance of recovery until Pilot Field arrived with serum which turned the tide of battle in her favor.

Mrs. Clarke had been ill for some time and her condition was regarded as critical by Grande Prairie medicos when an appeal was sent to Dr. W. C. Wilmeade of Edmonton and the University hospital here for a supply of serum which might save her life. By Saturday night the staff of the University hospital had prepared the serum and at 5 a.m. on Sunday morning Pilot Field took off from the local airport, landing at Grande Prairie two hours later.

Grande Prairie doctors and hospital authorities were waiting at the airport there and by eight o'clock the serum had been administered.

Since its administration the condition of Mrs. Clarke has shown a steady improvement, and high hopes are now held out for her full recovery.

The average motor car now in use is nearly five years old.

Society Chooses Four Winners In Garden Contest

Recent judging of rock gardens in the city in the Edmonton Horticultural Society's annual competition showed that gardens this year were of a relatively higher standard than last year, according to officials of the society.

Following are the winners: first, Mrs. P. S. Bailey, 10234 134 street, who will receive 15s the Bank of Montreal perpetual challenge cup; second, A. Hanslip, 9921 103 street; third, Mrs. T. Taylor, 10159 116 street; fourth, Mrs. W. L. Brintnell, 13030 Wellington Crescent.

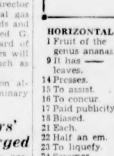

One point particularly stressed during the judging was that gardeners should bear in mind the fact when constructing a rock garden that when in bloom the garden should present a complete and different picture regardless from what angle the garden is viewed.

ROBOT WEATHER OBSERVERS TO BE PLACED AT POLES

OTTAWA, June 29—Establishment of automatic robot weather observers at the north and south poles, on mountain tops, and on isolated islands to predict the weather for a week or more ahead was forecast today by Dr. W. R. Gregg, chief of the U.S. weather bureau.

Such automatic weather stations, which would make continuous records of atmospheric conditions, would be powered by electric batteries and would require rare inspections by passing ships or airplane visits, Dr. Gregg said.

Erosion has destroyed more than 25,000,000 acres of farm land in the United States alone.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make bile flow freely. Don't accept substitutes of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

COURT CLEARS CAWING CROW AS DISTURBER

MONTREAL, June 29—Thomas Jeffrey and his crow were acquitted Tuesday on charges of disturbing the early morning peace of suburban Rosemount. Chief Recorder G. Thouin dismissed charges brought against Jeffrey by David Leach, a neighbor who complained the cawing Jeffrey's pet crow disturbed his slumber.

CITY IS FINED IN FAILURE TO SUPPLY RELIEF

CALGARY, June 29—The city of Calgary was fined $50 for failure to provide adequate unemployment relief for George A. Mills Tuesday. It was the first conviction here under the bureau of relief and public welfare act.

"In my view the complainant established himself as a resident under the meaning of the act," said Magistrate J. F. Fitch who heard the case in city police court.

T. W. Collinge, city solicitor, indicated the judgment would be appealed. It was agreed, however, Mills would be granted unemployment relief pending the appeal.

PLAN ACTION IN EVENT OF BANK CLOSING

the gathering, issued the following statement regarding the deliberations:

ACTION WANTED

The discussion during the two days' caucus can be summed up in the words—definite action is wanted.

Reports from M.L.A.'s show that the people throughout the province are indignant at the continued opposition which is now being openly flouted by the financial interests. They are demanding action to safeguard them against the threatened withdrawal of essential services by the banks and they are demanding that the policy of the Ottawa government in disallowing act after act at the instigation of the financial interests shall cease.

Reports and resolutions from all parts of the province clearly indicate that the people are united more solidly than before in support of the government's efforts to free them from economic bondage, that they have reached the limit of their patience at the continued opposition of the financial interests and that they want the Alberta government to take definite action to relieve their plight.

It seemed evident that the federal government would neither allow the Alberta government to do anything for the people nor does it intend to do anything itself to deal with the present unsatisfactory state of affairs.

PROVIDE SERVICES

To meet the situation which has been created by the threatened withdrawal of banks from rural areas, it was decided that until the question of the bank's duty to the people has been satisfactorily settled and their institutions recognise their social obligations, the treasury department, in conjunction with the department of trade and industry, should make preparation for the provision of satisfactory services being available to the people to yield them material benefits.

There is no intention of going into banking business. If the banks refuse to recognize their obligations to the people, if they insist on imposing on the people the present conditions for which they, the banks, alone are responsible, and if Ottawa will do nothing about it, an acute issue will arise as to the right of the banks to continue to block all means of relieving these conditions in the province.

Consideration was given to the demand from several constituencies for road building programs which will enable people to get rid of their burdens of tax arrears. It was resolved that proper means be devised without delay for dealing with this question.

APPROVAL EVIDENT

Reports were received from all districts on the production tax proposal. It is evident that the principle has received widespread approval. As the tax will not come into operation unless it is wanted by the people, except in a form of which they approve, the frank discussions taking place throughout the province were welcomed by the government.

Judging from the consensus of views obtained it seems likely that the crop insurance aspect of the scheme will not be introduced unless and until there is a wider demand. Also there will have to be certain modifications to remove the inequalities of a flat non-graduated levy.

Other matters discussed included the satisfactory progress being made in re-organization of educational units, the growth of support for social credit ideas evident throughout the Dominion—brought out by the Saskatchewan provincial election—and the low interest loans of the Dominion government for certain local projects.

The members of the caucus are satisfied with the rapid progress made in its discussions, and with the spirit of purpose and harmony which made this possible.
